Incorporation for Sleepy Hollow?

THERE ARE $8.75 in prizes waiting for this week's Lucky Commuter at any of The Sun's business offices. That's right, a $5 check and a year's subscription to The Sun will be presented to this woman who is driving in Central Contra Costa County. —Sun photo by Rod Lomas.

Here's The Sun's 'Lucky Commuter'

Last week's Lucky Commuter, H. Hinman of 11 Snowberry Lane, Orinda, walked away with $8.75 in prizes Wednesday.

And today, in the eighth week of the Lucky Commuter Contest, $5 in cash and a subscription to The Sun are waiting to be picked up by the lucky woman pictured above.

All she has to do is walk into a Sun business office and claim the prize. It's that easy!

If you recognize her let her know that she is this week's Sun Lucky Commuter. Who knows, next week it may be you!

Second Bore Hangs Solely On Highway Commission

Whether Contra Costa will have a second bore through the Berkeley Hills is "purely in the hands of the State Highway Commission," according to J. P. Sinclair, newly apponited State District IV engineer.

Contra Costa County has requested the tunnel project to be included among its top priority recommendations for construction during the 1960-61 fiscal year.

Sinclair commented plan and design studies were underway and they would be ready if the highway commission approves money in October or November of this year.

"The only thing that's stopping the construction of a second bore through the Berkeley hills is money," Sinclair added.

The second bore will link the Grove-Shafter Freeway with the Diablo Freeway in Contra Costa County.

Sinclair continued by noting there would be very little problem to the acual construction of the tunnel and the linking roads since plans had been made in anticipation of the project for a number of years.

In concluding, Sinclair said, "All of our district plans are laid for years to come. We just have to see what projects the highway commission wants us to act on."

Miramonte Pool Contract Goes to Paddock

Acalanes High School District trustees has awarded the contract for the Miramonte High School swimming pool to Paddock Engineering for a low bid of $59,449.

The board also accepted an alternate bid for $1428 to bring the size of the diving pool to 30x42 feet. The main pool will be 42x75 feet.

IN AWARDING the contract trustees again commended a community pool fund committee for its aid in raising in excess of $25,000 towards pool construction.

Trustees had turned down an earlier low bid of more than $80,000 as being "too high."

The district architect observed that one reason for the new low bid "is the 150 days allowed for completion of the pool."

THE MIRAMONTE pool will be similar to the pool at Las Lomas High in Walnut Creek, built several years ago, also with the aid of a community fund drive.

Petitions Ask County To Set Boundary Lines

Some residents of Sleepy Hollow are determined to push for incorporation of that area.

Sparked by Frederick F. Rust, 61 Van Ripper Lane, a group of residents have filed petitions of intention to circulate incorporation petitions.

The petitions ask the County Boundary Commission to approve boundaries of the proposed city.

Approximately 350 acres of Sleepy Hollow land are involved. Some 300 homes are in the areas and approximately 1300 people live there.

Principle reason for incorporation, according to Rust, is so the development can control its own planning and zoning.

OTHERS BEHIND the incorporation movement are Don Anderson, Dr. Henry Fastabend and DeLoss Winkler.

Rust said his group is using the community of Monte Sereno, near Los Gatos, as a "model" on which to base its actions.

Monte Sereno has a tax rate of about 15 cents and contracts for services from Santa Clara County.

"The population and type of community are very similar to ours," Rust said.

"We want to be able to resolve our own problems of planning and zoning," Rust told The Sun.

"When we incorporate we plan to contract for services from the county," he continued.

"But, let me make it clear that although there is a certain urgency to our movement we do not want to go galloping off in all directions," he said.

ON TUESDAY the boundary commission is expected to act on the petitions.

The petitions were signed by approximately 60 property owners—"half of what we need to sign the incorporation petition," Rust said.

The City of Sleepy Hollow would operate under the city council system, Rust declared, but added that no city hall would be constructed.

Meanwhile, Tuesday night the county planning commission adopted the General Plan for Orinda after deleting the Lombardy Lane through road proposals.

More than 250 Orindans attended the meeting and also heard the commission pledge to attempt to adhere to the Orinda Association's request for maintenance of holding the density pattern as near to two families per acre as is possible.

Last week the county board of supervisors postponed decision on a controversial re-zoning request in the Oak Springs area.

This was a request by James W. Brown that 16 acres in Oak Springs be re-zoned from R-A to R-15.

The Orinda Association had opposed his request but the county planning commission recommended approval.

Rheem to Be Site Of Bowl

A million dollar bowling alley will be constructed at Rheem Center The Sun learned yesterday.

The fact that such a structure would be built has been the subject of rumors for many weeks.

Yesterday The Sun was told that final negotiations have been completed.

THE TRANSACTION is being handled by Douglas Weeks of the firm of Mason-McDuffie Company, realtors. The firm's Orinda office is handling details.

Ground is now being leveled for the building, according to Weeks.

Architect's renderings of the proposed project are being prepared in the realtor's Berkeley offices, Weeks said.

RUMORS THAT a branch of the Bank of America would be another new addition to the Rheem Shopping Center were firmly discounted by bank officials in San Francisco.

Ray Toman, public relations director, said the bank is "giving no consideration to the center for a branch bank site at this time."

No confirmation could be made of other rumors which were circulating this week concerning construction of a group of "garden apartments," a medical-dental center and a "first class" county restaurant.

The Rev. William Pothier Named to St. Stephen's

Orinda welcomed five new residents this week, and St. Stephen's Episcopal Church a new rector's assistant, when the Rev. William R. Pothier arrived with his family to take up the duties of the post left vacant by the resignation of the Rev. Andrew Daughters.

Mr. Pothier completed his studies at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, Berkeley, in June, and was ordained in the diaconate by the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, bishop of the diocese of California, in ceremonies at Grace Cathedral June 21.

He has served as seminarian assistant at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Oakland, for the past three years while attending the divinity school. He was graduated in 1940 from Boston University, where he studied industrial management, and worked for some time for the Scovill Mfg. Co., Waterbury, Conn.

During the war he was a captain in army ordnance, and upon returning to Scovill after 4½ years service was sent to Philadelphia, Pa., where he became interested in the Quaker movement. He joined the Friends and was active for seven years at the yearly meeting level.

While working with the Quakers in depressed areas he began to feel he had to make a total commitment to God, and at this point he met the Rev. Charles F. Whiston, noted Episcopal authority on personal prayer, who introduced him to the Anglican Church.

He and his family moved to Berkeley, and after his acceptance as a postulant by the late Bishop Block, entered the seminary as a candidate from the diocese of California. After serving for some time as a deacon he will be ordained in the priesthood.

In the meantime, his attractive wife, Terry, has earned her P.H.T. (putting hubby through) degree by working as an administrative secretary at St. Margaret's House, Berkeley, an Episcopal school which trains women for work in Christian education.

The couple has one son, Bob, 16, who will be a senior at Miramonte High School, and two daughters, Denise, 14, who will be a sophomore at Miramonte, and Andree, 10, who will be in the fifth grade at Glorietta School.

The family's favorite recreation is mixed doubles at tennis. While they lived in Philadelphia, both parents were active in the Tennis Umpires' Association, of which he was a chairman, and both saw service at the national championship matches at Forest Hills.

Training at Fort Ord

Leland J. Figone, of 23 Glorietta Drive, is undergoing basic training at Fort Ord. He is a member of the First Brigade, Fifth Battle Group, B Company.

Moraga School Site Okayed By Planning Commission

The County Planning Commission Tuesday approved the site for a proposed new school in the Moraga Elementary School District.

The 10-acre site, which fronts about 900 feet on the north side of Camino Pablo, is located east of Pickerson Drive.

Included in other actions, the board put two rezoning requests forward to Tuesday because the absence of one commissioner made a two-thirds majority approval impossible.

The vote was four to two, with six of the seven members present, on applications from Manuel J. Lucas of Pleasant Hill and Dr. B. P. Schliefer of Pacheco.

The commission also:

Denied a request by Claudio Garibotti to rezone a 4.5-acre parcel on Hough Avenue south of Mt. Diablo Boulevard in Lafayette from multiple family residential to retail business.

Denied an application to re-zone 1½ acres in the Danville Gardens subdivision from residential agricultural to retail business by Harold Toland.

Denied a request by May G. Stow to rezone a .45 acre parcel on Lancaster Road in the Westwood Park subdivision in the Walnut Creek area from residential agricultural to multiple family residential.

Turned down requests from Paul Gailus and four others to rezone a 20-acre property from the present multiple family residential and agricultural to light industrial.

The parcel is bounded on the north by the Arnold Highway, on the east by the Bisso property.

Drunk Drivers Will Face New July 4 Controls

State Motor Vehicles Director Robert McCarthy today applied tighter clamps in his reckless driver campaign in an effort to cut the traffic death toll during the Independence Day holidays.

"Every person arrested for drunk driving between July 1 and July 6, and subsequently convicted, will have his license suspended for at least six months," McCarthy announced.

The minimum six months' suspension, McCarthy said, will apply to first offenders, "who in the past have been escaping with light suspensions, or none at all."

"A public highway is no place for a drunk," the motor vehicle chief declared.

Attorneys Object to Judge's Participation in Moot Court

A group of Walnut Creek attorneys voiced immediate objection to the participation of Judge Betsy FitzGerald Rahn in a moot court training session Wednesday conducted by the District Attorney, the Walnut Creek Police and the judge.

The purpose of the day in court was to familiarize police officers with court room tactics and proper procedures to be used by officers while answering defense and prosecution questions, said Police Chief Leigh Brilliant.

John R. Forde, James O'D. Ring, Loy Dale Wright stated the participation of the judge "tends to destroy the impartial character of the court."

THE JURY at the moot session was composed of 12 members of the Walnut Creek Police Department. All witnesses and other participants with the exception of the district attorney and the judge were police officers.

John Nejedly, district attorney, conducted the prosecution and Judge Rahn acted as defense attorney.

"For a judge to participate on behalf of either a plaintiff or a defendent is diametrically opposed to the very principles of judiciary ethics.

"The judge becomes another advocate rather than remaining impartial," the attorneys argued.

"The fact of her participation in the exercise give rise to the thought that perhaps the judge of the Walnut Creek Judicial District is not as objective as she should be," they noted.

"Perhaps the judge should consider offering a similar advantage to the defense attorneys by holding a training session for them, but we can't condone any further participation of a judge in training sessions with the prosecution.

"Each case should be tried on its merits and we are brought to wonder if the judge's aid during this so-called moot session may not set a precedent," the lawyers observed.

"We are in full accord that the district attorney should conduct training sessions to enhance his chances for convictions, but we must insist that the judge be divorced from any future participations with either defense or plaintiff," the group insisted.

The attorneys concluded by citing Canons 4, 20 and 22 of the Conference of California Judges on Judicial Ethics warning judges to stay away from any obligations which may embarass them and to refrain from any relationships which may prevent an impartial decision on any matter.

Judge Answers Objections In Moot Court 'Exercise'

Judge Betsy FitzGerald Rahn of the Walnut Creek Judicial District answered objections filed by area attorneys to a moot court session held by the Walnut Creek Police Department.

In a prepared statement Judge Rahn stated:

"I HAVE BEEN informed that certain local attorneys have criticized my participation with the district attorney of Contra Costa County in a training session with the police department.

"A training session was held to acquaint police officers who testify in court cases with the proper conduct of witnesses before the court and proper methods of presentation of evidence in cases before the court.

"The purpose of this was that the court or the jury might better have all of the pertinent facts presented to it or them in each individual case.

"OFTEN, IN cases before the court both a defendent and a police officer will be before the court without counsel representing either side.

"Under those circumstances it becomes the duty of the court to instruct both the officer and the defendent as to proper procedure in the presentation of admissable evidence on the matter before the court.

"It seemed more efficient and less a duplication of effort and waste of the court's time to present such instruction to the officers as a whole group.

"Instruction of the individual defendents will also be taken up in each individual case as they occur before the court.

"AS A JUDGE, I'm concerned with the effective operation of the court to best administer justice. To this end, I am primarily concerned wtih getting all of the pertinent facts before the court or the jury in each case.

"I am amazed that efforts along these lines could be construed as any sign of partiality on the part of the court.

"If any defense attorneys feel that they need, or would like instruction in the proper presentation of evidence before the court, I will be glad to devote my time to a session for their instruction. I certainly believe that all the facts on both sides should be fully before the court in each matter," the judge concluded.

Sun Reporter 'Arrested' in Drunk Driver Test

By BOB RAPIDA

I have been arrested for drunk driving.

I have personally experienced the same conditions, the same treatment and the same arrest procedures as have a multitude of drinking drivers who have been caught while operating an automobile under the influence of alcohol.

In the past several weeks there have been a number of jury trials in the Walnut Creek Judicial District, which includes Orinda, Lafayette, Alamo, Moraga and Walnut Creek, of misdemeanor drunk driving.

A number of defendants have turned in a plea of guilty while others have decided on jury trials to determine whether they were guilty of driving an automobile "while under the influence of alcohol."

The Sun, in order to find a reason why four arrests made by the Walnut Creek Police Department for drunk driving had ended in jury acquittals, participated in a training exercise engineered by Chief of Police Leigh Brilliant and Lieutenant Frank Thompson.

No officers were informed of the training exercise. Only Dick Osborn, associate editor of The Sun, this writer, and the two police officials knew of the test.

THE RESULT of the operation was open end—no one knew how the officers would act—no one knew exactly what would happen, but it was agreed the details of the experiment would be made public.

A number of serious accusations have been made against the Walnut Creek Police Department and these charges have been discussed in the June 19 and June 26 issues of The Sun.

Among the more serious of these complaints are the allegations that other law enforcement agencies are better trained than this police force; Walnut Creek officers are over-zealous and the cases prepared by the Walnut Creek Police are "weak."

In short: Is the failure of juries in the Walnut Creek Judicial District to find persons arrested for driving under the influence of intoxicants guilty the fault of the Walnut Creek Police Department?

IN NO WAY do I claim to be a police expert; in no way do I claim I am an expert in the law—but I participated in the exercise because I must concern myself with the enforcement of the laws in our community and the way in which a police department acts during the enforcement of these laws created for our mutual protection.

The test was simple enough—I was to be arrested for drunk driving.

The preparations were thorough. Here is what happened:

I received a call from Chief Brilliant at approximately 9:30 p.m., June 24, at my home that the plan was to be put into operation.

I washed out my mouth several times with Gallo Cocktail Dry Sherry. I soaked my hair, face and shoulders with rubbing alcohol and spilled liberal amounts of wine on my shirt and pants.

I PICKED UP several half-empty packages of cigarettes and loaded my pockets with matches from various taverns. I placed a near-empty bottle of wine on the car seat and drove to Walnut Creek with my car windows closed, heater on. I did not smoke.

I made contact with the chief after drinking a beer to make certain I would smell strongly of alcohol. It was planned that I would do all in my power to convince the officer I was drunk.

I drove south on North Main to the south side of the North Main Bridge near the hospital. I spotted a Walnut Creek police car and continued south in an exaggerated sway, nearly hitting parked cars.

I cut from one lane to the other changing my speed rapidly from 10 to 20 miles per hour. I headed from the left lane at Newell, but darted back into the right lane and stopped for the red light.

I SAW the police car's red light, but I ignored it for almost a block.

After making a stop for the red light I turned west on Newell again ignoring the red light and drove on Newell to the bridge. I missed the road on purpose and drove into a small cul-de-sac just at the eastern end of the bridge. The police car stopped to my left front and a polic esergeant approached me.

I rolled the car window down. The alcohol smell was extremely strong.

The officer asked me if there were anything the matter. He seemed as though he were trying to be more helpful to a person who was not feeling well rather than talking to an apparent drunk.

I had trouble finding my license and turned over my wallet to the officer, who in turn took out the license and returned the wallet to me. After a few routine questions he asked me to step out of the car and take a simple test.

HE SHOULD be highly commended on the way in which he requested me to get out of the car—it was most interesting to note that he was being both apologetic and at the same time forceful. I was always called "Sir."

By this time a second police car had pulled up to the rear of my car and perhaps 30 feet behind it.

We (the two officers and myself) went to the sidewalk where I took the first sobriety test—I deliberately flunked.

We then went over to the second police car where I was handcuffed. I was asked if I wanted my watch taken off, but I refused—I then decided I had been passive enough and took a belligerent attitude.

The attitude of the officers did not change, but they convinced me they could get me into the car whether I did or did not care to enter.

The search and the handcuffing were not pleasant—but this is rather a personal observation than a matter of fact.

I "passed out" on the officers and they did have trouble getting me into the police car, but here again I felt as though they were careful of both me and the city's property.

I tried to convince the younger officer that I had a few dollars and all he had to do was let me out of the car and forget about the whole thing. He said nothing.

As the officer in my car was turning, I saw the sergeant turn off my headlights and close up my car—he also found the wine bottle—which had been capped on the front seat of the car.

I had tried to do a better job of hiding it, but I didn't have the time to shove it under the seat.

AS WE ARRIVED at the station, I again took a turn for the worse and shouted vulgarities.

During the entire questioning, the officers were worried about my hurting myself by falling and were patient.

The interest they showed in me and my condition was extraordinary. On one occasion when someone was walking in the hall, the sergeant urged the other officer to watch the door opening lest it him me in the back of the head and knock me off my chair.

I was taken to the station by the police officers to complete the series of sobriety tests because they felt I might injure myself on the street.

There are five sections to the physical condition and description record used by the Walnut Creek Police Department. These include ability to walk and turn, ability to retain balance, coordination of movements, injuries or disabilities and personal description.

IN ADDITION to the "condition and description sheet," the officers ask a series of "direct" questions ranging from my full name to whether I had used throat or mouth wash in the past six hours.

Police Version of 'Drunk Driver'

If you are ever arrested for drunk driving (502) you can expect to have a report written about your actions exactly as one was filed during the drunk driving arrest exercise of the Walnut Creek Police Department.

The person referred to as "drunk," "driver," "responsible," is Sun News Editor Bob Rapida. The officers who prepared the report and arrested Rapida during the mock exercise were Sergeant P. W. O'Donnell and Officer J. Carnahan.

Neither officer knew the arrest was a test. They filed their reports just as if Rapida had been a drunken driver and would have to enter a plea in court.

Here is O'Donnell's report.

6-24-59, 9:55 p. m., received report of a 502 heading south on Main Street. Vehicle described as a grey 1954 Plymouth, License No. CKL 982, one male occupant.

THE VEHICLE in question was first observed by this officer parked near the curb line on the Walnut Creek bridge just south of Botelho. Upon approaching the vehicle, it proceeded to move south on Main.

The driver did not appear to have full control of his car, as the vehicle swerved sharpely from left to right—crossing the divider line of the two south bound lanes. Due to the traffic in front of the suspect, which had come to a stop at the intersection of Main and Newell because of the traffic controls at that location, the driver was compelled to apply his brakes at which time he did so with such quickness that I could observe the upper part of his body bounce upward and against the windshield and steering wheel.

It was at this time that I hit the suspect's vehicle with the red light and seeing that he acknowledged same by turning around and looking directly into it, I proceeded to get out of my vehicle and to approach his car.

THE SUBJECT then accelerated and made a right turn on Newell Ave. I pursued same and by use of both the red light and horn brought the subject to a stop just opposite the Newell Medical Building, at which time I radioed in my location.

Upon approaching the driver I observed him either reaching for or trying to conceal something.

I asked the driver how he was doing and he came back with "What's the matter? What did you stop me for?"

His words were very thick and slurred at this time. I asked to see his driver's license, at which time he fumbled through all his pockets before handing his wallet out the window.

Inasmuch as the responsible's motor abilities were not as coordinated as would be expected of the average man, I removed the driver's license from the plastic holder and returned the wallet to him, telling him to put it back in his pocket.

AT THIS time the odor of alcohol was extremely noticeable, both on the responsible's breath and in the vehicle. After checking his license against his physical description, I asked him to step out of the car, at which time he said "Oh man, what the hell is this? Listen man, I've got to get home." I explained to the suspect that it would be necessary for him to take a performance test in order to determine whether or not he was at this time capable of driving.

Officer Carnahan arrived the scene and parked his vehicle some 25' behind the responsible's and it was on the use of his headlights that we illuminated that area used for sobriety exam.

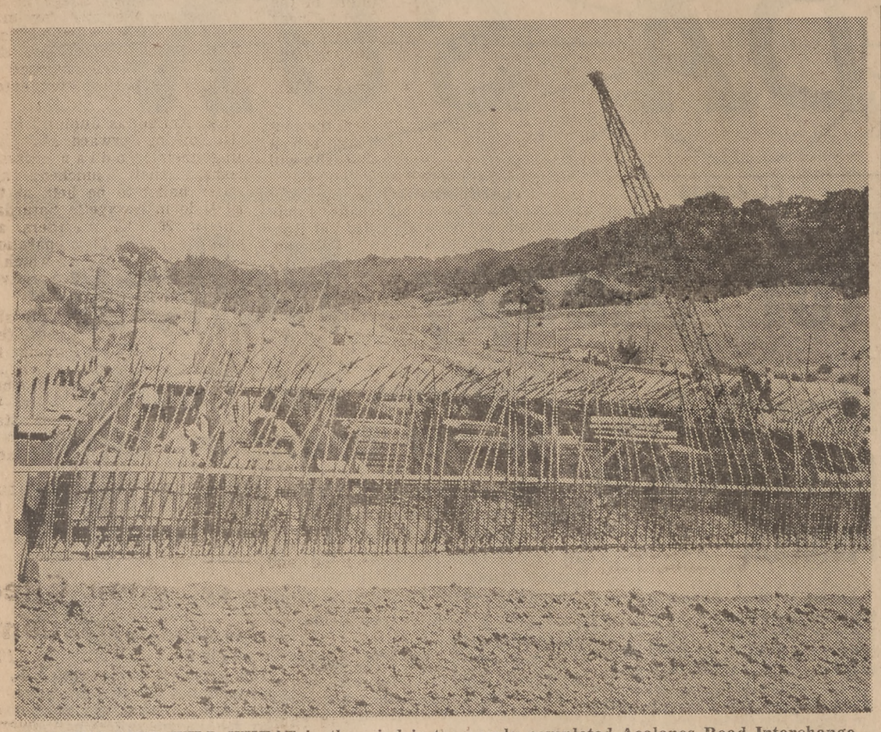

I first asked the responsible to walk directly toward me in a straight line. The subject took a few steps and proceeded falling to his right.

He was caught by Officer Carnahan, who kept him from falling to the pavement. I then asked the responsible to stand with feet together, arms extended out parallel to ground and illustrated same.

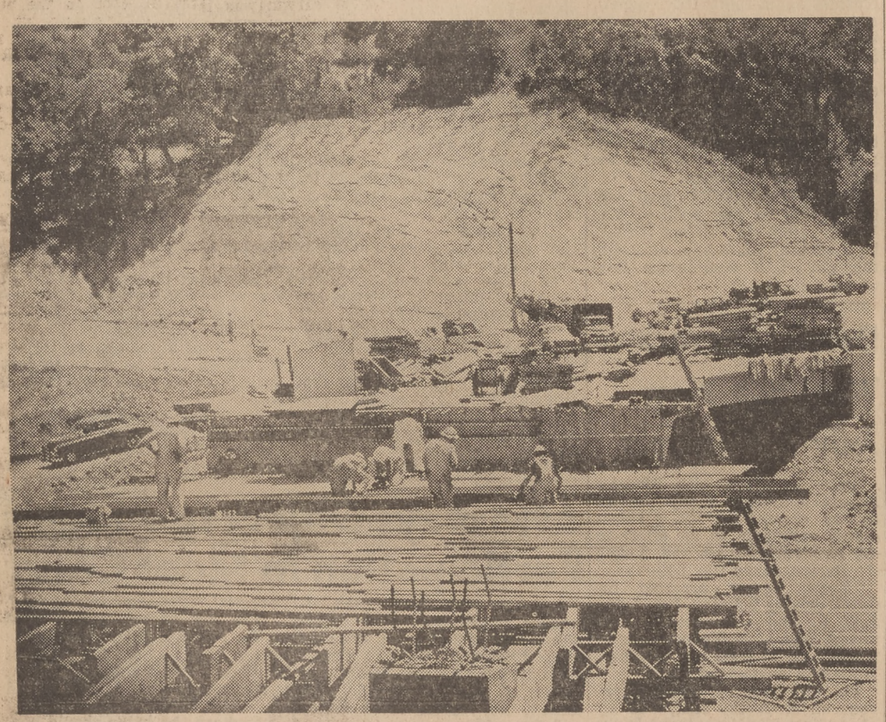

When he attempted this performance he fell backward and again was caught by Officer Carnahan. It was at this time that I decided that the man was too drunk to continue the examination on the street and that it would be

Construction Brings 'New Look' to Mt. Diablo Blvd.

Work to End by December On Charles Hill Freeway

Completion of the Charles Hill segment of Contra Costa's freeway system is expected by the end of this year, according to J. D. Collins, associate highway engineer.

The project consists of a realignment of the existing road into a six lane freeway with provisions for eight. Over passes will be located at Charles Hill Road and Acalanes Road.

Approximate cost of the construction is $3,800,000 and includes all-concrete paving. Work has been going on since August of last year.

Collins plans to switch the existing detour in a few months to the east lanes, which are now being completed, so that work can begin on the west part of the freeway.

When finished, this project will form the link between the Lafayette bypass and the Orinda crossroads freeways. Eventually there will be continuous line from Walnut Creek to the Broadway low level tunnel.

Police Version Given In Officers' Reports

safer to complete the performance test at the station. I informed the responsible that it would be necessary to transport him to the station, where he would be examined by a physician. He stated "I'm not going to go."

It was again explained to him that it was absolutely necessary. He continued to insist that he wasn't going with us, at which time Officer Carnahan and I took him under each arm and brought him to the rear door of the patrol car (Officer Carnahan's), where we searched and handcuffed the the subject.

The rear door of the patrol car was opened and the responsible was asked to get in. He resisted somewhat and when he finally did make an effort to get in to the vehicle, making it necessary for both Carnahan and myself to lift him up out of the seat.

I then returned to the responsible's vehicle, whereupon inspection found a half empty bottle of wine. His keys were removed from the ignition and the vehicle secured by this officer prior to leaving for the station.

Upon arriving at the station, I helped Officer Carnahan remove the responsible from the rear seat, who at this time wedged his left foot in the door jam and complained that he couldn't get out.

Upon bringing him into the station he became very boisterous and informed me that I was a lousy . . . The responsible was then placed in the squad room, where I again continued the sobriety test while waiting for the doctor.

During this time hte responsible nearly fell out of his chair some three different times and would have if either myself or Officer Carnahan had failed to catch him. The sobriety exam was completed to the best of the responsible's ability.

His reactions in all phases of the test indicated strongly that he was under the influence of alcohol and not in full control of his faculties.

Here is Officer Carnahan's report as submitted to Chief Brilliant and Lieutenant Thompson.

At approximately 10:00 p. m. I went to Newell and Main to assist Sgt. O'Donnell with a possible 502. When I arrived the sergeant had a grey 54 Plymouth four door, CKL 982, stopped on Newell by the Newell Medical Building.

The patrol car was at an angle off the left front of the vehicle rear of the stopped vehicle and stopped. I parked my car at the approached the stopped car.

Sgt. O'Donnell asked the driver to step out of the car and opened the door. The driver stated "Oh man, what's with all this?" Sgt. O'Donnell then stated he wished the driver to take a few tests. The driver came out of the car.

At this time this officer noted the smell of alcohol on the driver —the driver was then asked to perform a feet together-arms out-eyes closed test.

At this the driver started to fall and Sgt. O'Donnell and I had to hold the driver from falling to the sidewalk.

The driver was in no condition to continue the exam on the street, so Sgt. O'Donnell directed this officer to transport the driver to the station. The driver then stated he was not going and continually said "Oh man."

This officer and Sgt. O'Donnell took the driver by each arm and took him to my patrol car. At this time, as we came to the patrol car, the driver began to struggle and as Sgt. O'Donnell and I began to place him in the patrol car the driver went limp on the floor—wedging himself between the rear of the front seat and the rear seat.

The driver's upper body was in the patrol car with his legs hanging out of the car. I went to the other side of the vehicle and lifted the driver up into the rear seat.

At this time the driver sat up and tried to hinder this officer's closing the door. I notified the dispatcher that I was enroute station with one male prisoner.

While driving to station this officer was asked "Can't we make a deal?" and made a reference to being paid prior to arrest.

The driver asked where was going and stated he was tired. He also stated he had worked all day. Upon arriving at the station I brought the driver into the station through a side door.

When the driver came through the door he became very loud and used profanity until taken to the squad room. The driver during this time was unsteady on his feet and I had to stay with him so that he would not fall and hurt himself.

The driver asked when he was going home and again stated he was tired. Sgt. O'Donnell stated we wanted to have the driver take a few simple tests and the driver stated "Oh man, I don't need any tests—I want to go home."

I again witnessed the sobriety tests given by Sgt. O'Donnell. During the beginning of the tests the driver fell off his chair and Sgt. O'Donnell and I had to help him up.

During the sobriety test the driver was smoking and I had to constantly keep him from burning himself with his cigarette. He also dropped his cigarette several times and once asked for a cigarette while he still had one in his mouth.

During the part of the exam where questions are being asked the driver started to fall off his chair and was caught by me before he could injure himself. Sgt. O'Donnell then placed the driver's chair by the door so he could have some support. The driver asked for some water and was given some. I asked if he would like some more water and he stated "no."

The driver stated he did not feel well and that he felt dizzy. I asked if he would like to use the toilet and he stated "No man, I just want to get out of here."

Drunk Driver Test Held BY WC Police Department

Other questions include when I had last been sleeping, eating, working, drinking; where I was coming from and going to; the direction I was travelling, the city I was in and whether I was under the influence of liquor.

I DON'T WANT anyone to get the impression though, that the police officers' concern for my physical welfare interferred with the thoroughness of the officers in the investigation of the case.

They asked me repeatedly if I had been under a doctor's care, if I had taken any drugs or suffering from any physical disorder. Had I answered affirmatively to any of these questions I would have been taken to a hospital and examined by competent medical doctors.

Several important steps were missing from the testing operation.

As soon as I was arrested on Newell by the two police officers, they radioed to the police station for a doctor to be called to administer a blood-alcohol test and to examine my condition.

THE RADIO CALL was intercepted by Brilliant and the doctor was not called by the police dispatcher.

The officers, at the conclusion of the sobriety tests, were told by the chief, whom they had not seen to this point, that they had been participating in a practice session.

They were about to place another call to the doctor through the dispatcher when Brilliant concluded the exercise.

The entire interrogation was heard through an inter-communication system by Brilliant, Thompson and Osborn.

At the conclusion of the test, the officers were requested to submit reports on the incident.

I FEEL the officers had due cause to arrest me. My driving was hazardous; I displayed all the physical signs of being drunk and I was treated as a person who could cause great bodily harm to either myself or to someone else.

To this point the police department had fulfilled its duty. It had taken a potential menace off the streets and placed this person under arrest.

After the interrogation, the case is out of the police department's hands and placed under the jurisdiction of the county district attorney.

The police department is a fact-finding agency. It had made the observation, the interrogation and compiled the facts. The prosecution of the case is the duty of a separate arm of law enforcement, the district attorney.

UPON INVESTIGATION, the arresting methods of other police departments were found to be nearly identical to those employed by the Walnut Creek Police.

In training, the Walnut Creek Police Officer undergoes as much actual practice in the specifics of his job as any other law enforcement officer. The reports of the Walnut Creek Police Department, on a number of criminal offenses, picked by me at random, were detailed.

The details included a description of the events, as they happened, and the people involved, with notations necessary to give a full account of what occurred.

As in every experiment a conclusion must be reached or that which was to be demonstrated must be resolved.

HERE ARE MY conclusions based on the facts revealed by the training exercise.

The Walnut Creek Police Department is as well trained as any law enforcement agency.

Walnut Creek Police Officers are not over-zealous. They are carrying out their appointed duties with vigor and good judgment.

It is not the failure of the Walnut Creek Police Department that juries acquit drinking drivers in the Walnut Creek Judicial District.

PERHAPS A SIMILAR study should now be made of the court and the district attorney's deputies, but from the evidence already brought forth in the case of the police department, it would appear the same answers would be reached through a logical and factual approach.

The failure of juries to convict is not the fault of our law enforcement agency, but rather the fault of our own society and the mores to which we all conform.

Gill Successor Named in Fire Protection Area

Forrest Engelhart, owner of the Golden Eagle Ranch and president of a Berkeley plastics firm, defeated Oscar Johnson, another Morgan Territory rancher, by 38 votes in an informal straw balloting for commissioner of East Contra Costa County Fire District.

County Supervisor Warren G. Buchanan said earlier he would appoint the winner to succeed Geroud Gill, Marsh Creek resort owner and commissioner and volunteer fire chief of the district for the last 13 years.

Gill has been under criticism by the grand jury. He serves at the pleasure of the board of supervisors.

Engelhart received 48 votes in balloting at Clayton Hall. Johnson received 10 and there was one write-in vote for Gill.

Voting was limited to residents of both the fire district and Buchanan's fourth supervisorial district.

League of Women Voters Will Hear Jerry Waldie

The League of Women Voters of Concord-Diablo Valley will entertain prospective members at a dessert-coffee at the home of Mrs. John Irving at the foot of Mt. Diablo, 1200 North Gate Road, Concord, Wednesday, July 15 at 1 p.m.

Arrangements are being made by Mrs. James Keating, area membership chairman, and Mrs. John Holt, first vice president.

Jerome Waldie, Assemblyman from the 10th Assembly District, will report to the membership on bills passed by the State Legislature in its recent session.

Of special interest to league members is legislation concerning mental and public health, public education, alcoholic beverage control, operation of the legislature, social welfare, public personnel merit system and election procedures.

The League of Women Voters has made studies in these areas of government and has taken stands on them.

At present the membership throughout the state is studying the water resources problem. Thus they are particularly interested in what the passage of the State Department of Water Resources California Water Plan will mean to the state.

After the program members and guests are invited to swim in Mrs. Irving's lovely pool.

One more summer meeting is planned for August 27. Mrs. H. C. Booth, foreign policy chairman, is making arrangements for the showing of the TV film, "The Face of Red China," which recently won an award for outstanding news coverage for CBS television network.

Regular program activities will resume in September.

Red Cross Enters Water

A boating safety program is being launched by the central Contra Costa County chapter of the American Red Cross, through the acquisition of an eight-foot boat presented by the Junior Red Cross, it was announced recently by Walter Killion, chairman of the chapter's water safety program.

A qualified water safety instructor of small crafts and first aid instructor, Killion said the chapter had been trying to get a boat for several years for instruction, demonstrations and classwork.

"THIS PHASE of our water program is in keeping with the American National Red Cross water safety program of water proofing America. California probably leads the nation in public and private pools. Under the circumstances we believe it imperative that every child and adult be water safety-minded. And everyone is becoming more and more concerned by the increasing number of boating accidents that could be avoided with just the kind of instruction and information we have to offer," he emphasized.

The boat and crew of trained volunteers are available for instruction and demonstration. Interested individuals or organizations of 15 or more persons may request a demonstration on the safe operation and proper equipment for canoes, row boats and outboard motor boats. Demonstrations can be given in a pool or on dry land.

Killion itemized as good safety rules the following: learn to swim well, always swim with another person, respect the water and know your limitations. For boating enthusiasts he suggested the following, don't overload, don't over power, don't overlook safety items such as life jackets, extra oars, anchor and fire extinguisher.

IN ADDITION to the newly initiated boating program, qualified American Red Cross water safety instructors are giving life saving classes which are being held at the Pleasant Hill Recreation and Park District pool and the Martinez Recreation Department pool.

Richard Pollock, board of director, and instructor trainer of First Aid and Water Safety for the Central Contra Costa county chapter is in charge of the water safety program at the Pleasant Hill park and recreation pool. Serving under his supervision are: Ron Noakes, Jean Wieben, Walter Killion, Alex Fittinghoff, Jim Fullerton, and Lee Noakes.

Redwood Grove Dedicated to Frank Merriam

A beautiful 40-acre grove of stately California redwood trees recently was dedicated in memory of Frank Finley Merriam, former governor of California, in ceremonies sponsored by the California Real Estate Association at Prairie Creek State Park, north of Eureka.

The Governor Merriam Redwood Grove was accepted for the state by DeWitt Nelson, director of natural resources, who represented Governor Brown.

Governor Merriam was a realtor and an honorary president of the 30,000-member California Real Estate Association.

Arrangements for the dedication were made by the Save-the-Redwoods-League and the California State Division of Beaches and Parks.

James B. Clayton Jr., of San Jose, president of the California Real Estate Association, praised Merriam for his many years of dedicated public service.

Clayton said that the association for many years has been interested in the objectives of the Save-the-Redwoods-League.

He said that good progress is being made in preserving some of the finest redwood forests, although much remains to be done to save remaining wilderness forest areas before it is too late.

Of the giant redwoods, said Clayton, many of them 2000 years old, it has truly been said, "They cannot be replaced."

Social Security Payments Easier

One of the goals of the Social Security Administration is to pay benefits as promptly as possible to those persons entitled to payments, Morgan J. Shea, manager of the Berkeley office stated recently.

To do this, Shea said, it is necessary for the person claiming benefits to make inquiry for payments at his local social security office. A worker should inquire for payments before he retires if he knows he will be retiring on a certain date.

This will give the Social Security Administration and the person claiming benefits time to get the information and evidence together to establish his rights to the payment before the time his first check is due.

Generally, evidence will be required to prove the age of the retired person and the age of his wife. This may be a birth certificate or other record of age that is old and reliable. Also, evidence of the worker's earnings in the taxable year that ended before he plans to retire is necessary. This may be a copy of the income tax return for self-employed persons or the W-2 forms for wage earners.

Shea again stressed that for prompt payment of your first social security check "inquire before you retire" at your Berkeley social security office.

Taxpayers Group Names Mertens, Barnett to Comm.

Dr. L. E. Carbert, president of the Contra Costa County Taxpayers' Association announced that E. W. Mertens of Richmond and M. J. Barnett of Pittsburg have been appointed to the group's government operations committee.

Both Mertens and Barnett are former members of the 1958-59 county grand jury and were active upon its structure of county government committee.

Dr. Carbert stated that he was happy and gratified to welcome Mertens and Barnett to the association's committee organization which is patterned after the structure of the national Hoover Commission.

The tremendous background of information which they have gained as members of the grand jury they will be able to put to use on a long-term basis for the citizens and taxpayers of Contra Costa County through the facilities of the tax group.

The enlistment of men like Mertens and Barnett can do much to increase the strength and influence of the Taxpayers' Association as an organization for more effective and economical government in Contra Costa County, Carbert concluded.

State Tightens On Drunk Drivers

State Motor Vehicles Director Robert McCarthy today applied cut traffic death toll during the tighter clamps in his reckless Independence Day holidays driver campaign in an effort to

"Every person arrested for drunk driving between July 1 and July 6, and subsequently convicted, will have his license suspended for at least six months," McCarthy announced.

The minimum six months' suspension, McCarthy said, will apply to first offenders, "who in the past have been escaping with light suspensions, or none at all."

"A public highway is no place for a drunk," the motor vehicles chief declared.

McCarthy pointed out that during the recent Memorial Day holiday period, 27 persons were killed in accidents on California highways.

"Seven of those 27 deaths occurred in accidents directly attributable to driving while under the influence of liquor," McCarthy disclosed.

He added that figures compiled by the California Highway Patrol also show that in the Memorial Day toll 133 persons were injured in accidents involving drunk drivers.

"The time for slogans in our efforts to pound some sense into the heads of irresponsible drivers is past, as far as the Department of Motor Vehicles is concerned," McCarthy warned.

"It is becoming more and more obvious that drastic action is the only answer to our traffic accident problem. We are going to get progressively tougher in our dealings with drunk and reckless drivers."

Diablo College Gets Loan Fund

Through the National Defense Education Act, the federal government has made $6,214 available for repayable loans to qualified students of Diablo Valley College so they may complete their higher education, Dr. Charles Chapman, dean of student personnel, said today.

Chapman explained that, although there are no tuition fees A student may borrow up to at the college, other costs prevent $1,000 in one year. He need not some students from attending or begin to repay the loan until one from giving sufficient time to year after leaving school and studies. The law requires bor- then will have 10 years in which rowers to be full-time students to complete payments. Chapman said that other loan funds have been made available by local civic, service and fraternal organizations and the college faculty. Interested students should contact either Dean Chapman or Robert Gilmore, loan fund counselor.

Age Lowered for Miss Contra Costa

Age requirements for the annual Miss Contra Costa contest were revised today to permit girls of 17 to compete in the beauty and talent pageant which features the opening of the county fair at Antioch.

The deadline for the contest, open to girls under 28 who will be 18 by the time of the Miss California contest next June, has been set for July 21 by the sponsoring Contra Costa County Development Association. Previously, an entrant had to be 18 by September 1, according to Iona M. Booth, the association's general manager.

In addition to a $250 scholarship or bond, a large trophy and a set of matched luggage, the girl adjudged Miss Contra Costa wins the right to compete in the Maid of California pageant at the state fair and in the Miss California contest at Santa Cruz.

Entrants in the local contest are judged on a basis of beauty and talent and are not required to sell tickets. The judging will take place July 30 at the opening of the four-day county fair. Entry blanks are obtainable from the Development Association office at 838 Escobar Street, Martinez, or from any of the county's chambers of commerce. Entrants have been asked to submit a portrait photograph for publicity purposes.

Mrs. Booth reported today that five girls have obtained entry blanks thus far, but only one, a Richmond student at the University of California, has officially filed.

Last year 11 girls participated in the contest, which was won by honey blonde Jo Ellen Fisher of San Pablo. Competing in the Miss California contest last week, Miss Fisher won a $250 scholarship as the best dancer.

A Little Carelessness... The Fat is In The Fire!

"How about some barbecued chicken tonight?"

These are familiar words in almost every home in Central Contra Costa County.

They bring immediate connotations of fragrant odors in the patio, of special barbecue sauces, and of heaps of green vegetables and salads, all clustered around the glowing coals of the barbecue pit.

Unfortunately, they can also connote disaster!

We don't want to throw water on the coals of barbecuing—it is a delightful pastime and provides a special kind of California "Togetherness." But we do want to issue a word of warning.

Be careful around that barbecue pit!

ALL OF US CAN remember grim stories of injury to a child or an adult when the fluid used to start the fire just "exploded."

And the lives of the family exploded, too. What started out to be a pleasant evening in the patio turned into a nightmare in the nearest hospital emergency room.

This is especially tragic when it happens to a child. Disfigurement is no easy thing to face and serious burns about the head and arms are not beautiful.

BUT THIS IS IN NO way limited to children. Every summer there are repeated instances of adults showing up at our emergency rooms with burns, all accrued at the local barbecue pit.

Most of us consider ourselves responsible adults. But it takes only a moment of carelessness to demonstrate graphically a lack of responsibility—and then recriminations are too late.

Teach your children a healthy respect for a barbecue pit. Keep your starter material in a safe place.

AND BEST OF ALL, teach the children by example. Don't throw a big blob of lighter material on coals which are already glowing. Use caution with flammables around open flame at all times.

And be careful of the hot fire once you have it going. It is not pleasant to overturn a portable barbecue on yourself, or to watch a child reach up and pull one over on himself.

A little care and there are many happy hours of eating outdoors ahead of all of us.

A little carelessness and there is a lifetime of regret ahead.

Which will you have?

In Your Own Back Yards...

Have you noticed all those tanned and happy individuals who keep showing up around the office and drop in to say hello at home these days?

They're the same individuals who were formerly pale and wan and could hardly stand up. There is just one difference . . . they've been on vacation, and the results are obvious.

Some times, of course, the results show in the pocket book. It hath that lean and hungry look as mentioned by Shakespeare, but in a different context.

The answer to this, of course, is to vacation at home!

WHAT KIND OF madness is this, you ask? Well, consider some of the possibilities. You can always go fishing in the Sacramento River, or in the thousand miles or so of sloughs and channels coursing through the delta lands.

And if you don't like to fish, you can just drift up the river with a picnic lunch and the water and the sunshine. It's a very relaxing way to spend a day—especially a week day when everybody else is slaving away in a hot office.

And with all that water around, you can swim, too. Nice, definitely, and very inexpensive.

SO MAYBE YOU'RE allergic to water. How about Tilden Park, or Redwood Regional Park? These areas, which are only minutes away from home, abound in wild areas where you can hike, picnic, barbecue, loaf or exercise, as your mood indicates.

You can spend a fine day with the family in these parks, ending with a barbecue and campfire, and again, it doesn't cost much. Accessible, too!

How about a little historical trip up to the ghost towns of Nortonville or Sommersville? Again, a picnic lunch is in order, and the old mines and remnants of a once booming community are both interesting and instructive.

Back to the water again. With a little equipment of your own, you can spend days water skiing on the river, and this sport has become one of the most popular in the area because of the accessibility of fine areas in which to practice this active sport.

AND PERHAPS closest to home of all—our own Mt. Diablo State Park. You are probably already familiar with its facilities, but if you are not a day's trip to the top with a picnic dinner on the slopes of the mountain is definitely in order.

Now, let your imagination work for you. The above suggestions are only an outline of the vacation possibilities which abound right in your own back yard.

All enthused by now? Ready to go? Have a nice vacation!

Save the Last Tooth for Me

By JACK SEYMOUR

I have just endured a grueling experience.

I have been to the dentist. In fact, to two dentists in the same day. A day of terror.

MY FEAR of dentists borders on the psychopathic. Long ago and far away I must have been frightened by the men in white.

Maybe my mother was. Or my father.

Anyway, I have a long history of resistance to the whirling motor, the whine of the drill and the jab of the pick.

But this was serious. You know, the swollen jaw, the sleepless nights, the aching tooth.

And so it came to pass that I dialed the phone for an appointment. "It's an emergency," I mumbled through swollen lips.

"This is Capwell's," a pleasant voice said.

I WAS NEVER so relieved in my life! But, after dialing the County Dog Pound, the Orinda Country Club and several housewives, I managed to get the right number—much to my regret.

But the good dentist (who shall be forever nameless) said he could "squeeze" me in that very afternoon! Oh joy! I think he meant "squeeze" figuratively but I was very cautious.

I approached the very chic dental building and circled (in the air, of course) several times, hoping I would have a heart attack and die before the dentist could get his biceps on my bicuspids.

MY HEART beat like a bongo drum at the hungry i at midnight; my perspiration glands opened the floodgates.

My eyes spun in their sockets like a Beechcraft warming up prior to take-off.

I stumbled to the door and fell in the waiting room. A small boy looked up at me and screamed for his mother.

The receptionist reached for the telephone to call the psychiatric squad but I remembered my name and told her I had an appointment. For a wild, gay moment I thought she had forgotten it. But no! This paragon of efficiency is on my list forever.

OF COURSE I had to wait so I glanced at the magazines my dentist leaves lying about for fools like me.

Naturally, all he has are Vogue, Harper's Bazaar, Fortune, Town and Country, Wisdom, American Heritage, and every other publication that spells m-o-n-e-y.

I remembered I had seen nothing parked in the dental building parking lot except a few Mercedes Benz, Jaguars, MGs, Cadillacs, Thunderbirds, a Rolls Royce or two and my 1928 Chevrolet.

"He must drill for gold," I muttered but no one paid any attention.

ONE DOWAGER was reading the stock market pages of a daily newspaper. Another was reading a travel folder describing a world cruise for ONLY $23,495. The little boy had stopped screaming and was reading "How to Wisely Invest Your Fortune."

My palpitations were slowing to a cha-cha-cha and visions of how I would write my last will and testament flashed across my numbed brain.

I was just bequeathing my ulcers to my dentist when the receptionist led me by a clammy paw to the Inner Room where the pale pink (expensive) machinery lay in wait.

My dentist took one look in my mouth and announced quite cheerfully, "You're falling to pieces!"

"Look, doc, don't be a critic, just tell me what you're going to do," I replied from the depths of my pool of sweat.

"Just take a picture and we'll see what shape THAT one's in," he said, undaunted by my brilliant sarcasm.

PICTURE was taken and developed and I was again out on the street. It seems that this dentist doesn't do EXTRACTIONS! I lurched off for something called an "oral surgeon."

Dentist No. 2 had a lobby equal in elegance to the Taj Mahal. I expected slave girls but all I found was that repulsive boy again. He was following me.

I repeated all symptoms again for benefit of Dentist No. 2. Preparing me for surgery amounting to doping me so heavily that I couldn't have resisted a puff of wind.

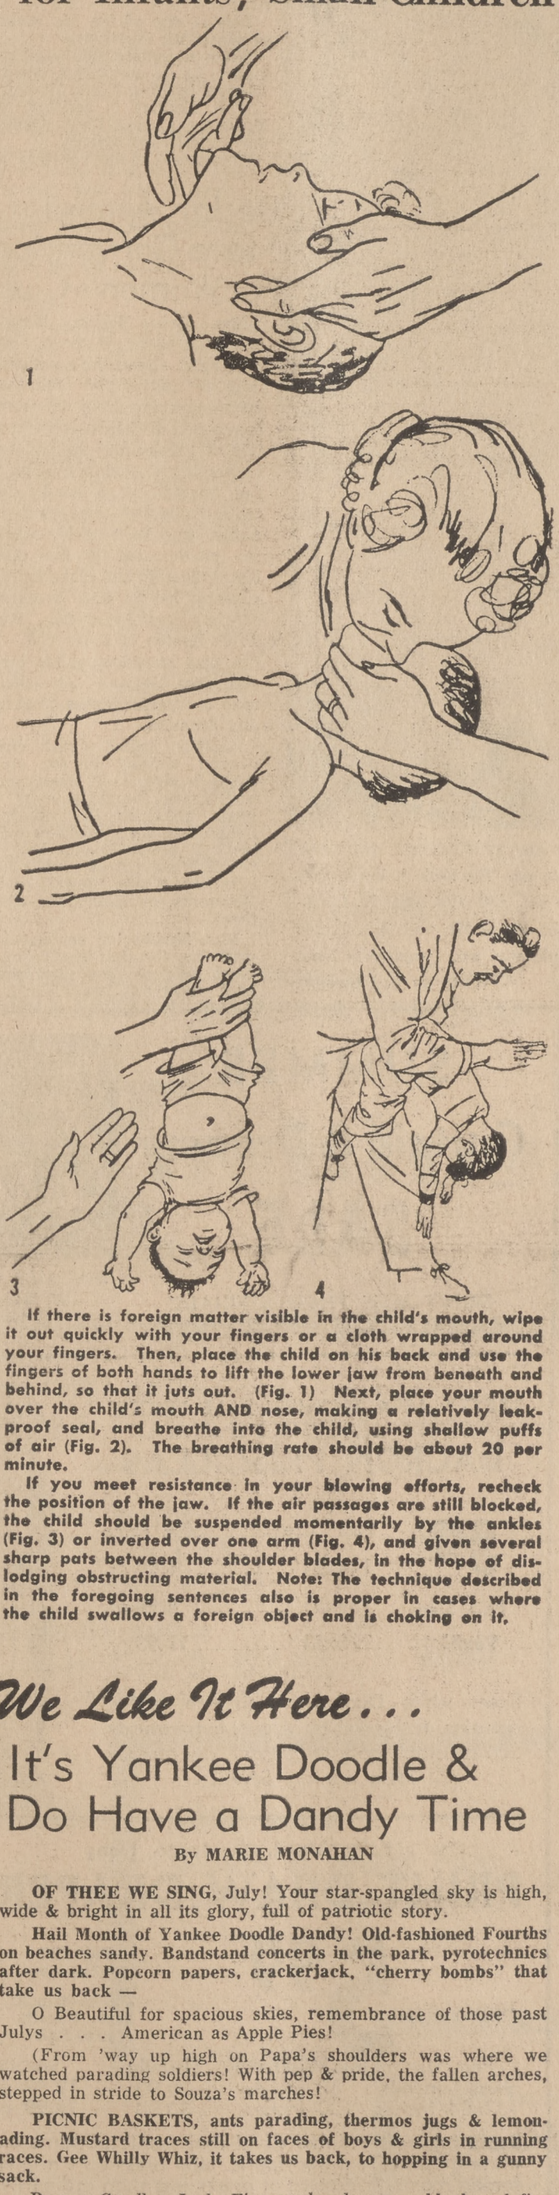

The gory instruments of torture came out. I closed my eyes and listened to the grinding of the gadget as it tore at my now-fractured jaw.

Suddenly, above the sound of my own screams I heard my dentist making some kind of noise.

He was singing!

AND NOT ONLY that but he was singing, quite audibly, "I Could Have Danced All Night," but I swear he changed the words. It sounded more like "I Could Have DRILLED All Night."

Mouth-to-Mouth Respiration for Infants, Small Children

If there is foreign matter visible in the child's mouth, wipe it out quickly with your fingers or a cloth wrapped around your fingers. Then, place the child on his back and use the fingers of both hands to lift the lower jaw from beneath and behind, so that it juts out. (Fig. 1) Next, place your mouth over the child's mouth AND nose, making a relatively leak-proof seal, and breathe into the child, using shallow puffs of air (Fig. 2). The breathing rate should be about 20 per minute.

If you meet resistance in your blowing efforts, recheck the position of the jaw. If the air passages are still blocked, the child should be suspended momentarily by the ankles (Fig. 3) or inverted over one arm (Fig. 4), and given several sharp pats between the shoulder blades, in the hope of dislodging obstructing material. Note: The technique described in the foregoing sentences also is proper in cases where the child swallows a foreign object and is choking on it.

It's Yankee Doodle & Do Have a Dandy Time

By MARIE MONAHAN

OF THEE WE SING, July! Your star-spangled sky is high, wide & bright in all its glory, full of patriotic story.

Hail Month of Yankee Doodle Dandy! Old-fashioned Fourths on beaches sandy. Bandstand concerts in the park, pyrotechnics after dark. Popcorn papers, crackerjack, "cherry bombs" that take us back —

O Beautiful for spacious skies, remembrance of those past Julys . . . American as Apple Pies!

(From 'way up high on Papa's shoulders was where we watched parading soldiers! With pep & pride, the fallen arches, stepped in stride to Souza's marches!

PICNIC BASKETS, ants parading, thermos jugs & lemonading. Mustard traces still on faces of boys & girls in running races. Gee Whilly Whiz, it takes us back, to hopping in a gunny sack.

Roman Candles, Lady Fingers, bandages on blackened fingers. A sparkler in the hand was great with which to form the figure "8" . . . & Oh, how fire engines clinged & clanged while firecrackers binged & banged. Mid-day Mom was near collapse, but it was US she sent for naps!

(That's the way it was Back Then. We wish it was that way again!)

Well, tie an apron 'round the middle, get the Hot Dogs on the griddle. Roast the corn & pass the salad.

SING a George M. Cohan ballad!

We salute you, month of summer, time for snoozing hammock slumber. Peeling noses, tired roses, Still no rain, we'll need NEW hoses!

Vacation month of wheels & keels, tents & tarps & rods & reels. Biking, hiking, taking trips, Schweppes & Pepsi, Iced-Tea sips. Not to mention things like THRIPS. And for First-Aid, Band-Aid strips!

Why IS it ALL Julys, mean battling bugs & bees & FLIES?

Ah, July, in line of duty, we salute your American Beauty — From California's oatmeal hills to Florida's coastal rocks & rills, to amber waves of Kansas grain & sweet salt seabreeze up in Maine, from purple mountains' majesty — The Best Things HERE in Life are FREE!

Spirit of '76 July, You're the Light in Uncle Sam's eye. MORE cause have we to celebrate. We've added TWO to 48!

All dressed up in red, white & blue. Alaska & Hawaii, too! Here, let us have a LOOK at you, all Stars & Stripes & Statehood, too!

Roll the drums & toot the fife, for the U.S. Way of Life.
For Drummer boy with bandaged head, ghost of Valley Forge's dead —
Of He & Thee, July, we sing. A prayer for peace, Let Freedom Ring!

SCHOOL NEWS

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity on behalf of the Acalanes Union High School District, its pupils and their parents, the Board of Trustees, and the District staff, to express our appreciation for the fine coverage your newspapers have given to the district and its schools (Miramonte, Acalanes, Las Lomas and Del Valle) during the past year.

DOGS, DOGS!

Dear Editor:

I would like to know what is being done and what I can do to keep loose dogs under control.

I had occasion to call the animal control office and report two unlicensed pups running in pairs after every car that drove down my street.

The owners did nothing when contacted, so I called a second time after which another neighbor ran over one pup with his two small children watching him drive away. The children practically had hysterics and I made my final "attempt" to have the dog that was left confined to the owner's yard so I wouldn't be the next to run over a dog.

To most people it is a very upsetting experience. Nothing was ever done, and I have since moved.

Now I am concerned over the upkeep of my yard. The work it is to keep a garden is not hard to take but the damage the dogs do is heart-breaking and expensive.

It used to be that when you were going to obtain a pet you had a fenced yard to keep them home. Now a person interested in how his home looks must fence in his garden. Something should be done.

OTHER FACTORS such as barking and running after people in cars or walking, even biting and nipping at feet, taking children's toys, lunches . . . all this and no one to go to except the pet owners.

One owner actually felt it was cruel to fence his dog in this third-acre yard but not cruel to allow him to chase cars.

Adults and children are not allowed to do the things dogs are allowed to do. I'd like to help keep dogs home.

I like dogs, really I do!

Students Honored By Dean

Five former Diablo Valley College students who transferred to University of California have won places on the Dean's Honor List for scholarship achievement in the College of Letters and Science, according to word received by Karl O. Drexel, director of the junior college.

Cited for maintaining cumulative averages of "B" or better, were one 21-year old man student and four married women, mothers of families, who have been studying to become elementary or secondary school teachers.

The man is David C. Riese, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Riese, 3650 Sarrano Street, Martinez. After graduating from Alhambra High School, he went to Diablo Valley College as a physics major, earning the Associate in Arts degree in 1957. In the summers he has worked for Shell Oil Company.

Of the four women students, Mrs. Barbara Stevens, wife of James J. Stevens, 1551 Livorna Road, West Alamo, is the youngest. She graduated from the junior college in 1958.

The other three are Mrs. Dorothy Millen and Mrs. Anna Stout, both of Concord, and Mrs. Jean Brownson of Walnut Creek.

Mrs. Millen, wife of Donald Millen, principal of El Dorado Intermediate School, resides at 3206 Dover Way. At the junior college she majored in education and child development, graduating in 1958. She has a daughter who is a junior in high school.

Mrs. Stout of 1485 Grove Way, is the wife of a Columbia Steel metallurgist and mother of a 16-year old daughter and 13-year old son. This fall she will be a student teacher in the seventh grade at Loma Vista School, Concord.

Mrs. Brownson resides at 2370 Overlook Drive, Walnut Creek, with her husband Edgar who is self-employed in the building supply business in Berkeley, and a teenage daughter who this June graduated from Las Lomas High School where she earned a chemistry scholarship to University of California at Santa Barbara. Mrs. Brownson majored in English in junior college. At the University, where she transferred in 1957, she plans to take graduate work toward a secondary teaching credential.

Unsuccessful Candidates, And Governor's Attempts

By HERMAN SILVERMAN

(Sun Editor and Publisher Herman Silverman is on vacation. This week's column is written by Bob Rapida, Sun news editor).

There's nothing as useless as a political poster the day after election.

Very little is heard about what happens to the unsuccessful candidates after the election shouting is over, so here is a glance at some of the candidates from the 1958 elections and what they are doing.

A strong, new voice

Howard Jewel, Orinda attorney, who ran a blistering Democratic campaign against Incumbent Congressman John Baldwin, is now in the State Attorney General's office.

SAM CONTI, who ran on the Republican ticket against Jerry Waldie for assemblyman, 10th district, is now a partner in the law firm of Coll, Conti and McBride in Concord.

Tom McBride, who lost out to Judge Tom Fraga in one of the closest superior court judge contests in the county's history is another partner in the "bi-partisan" law firm.

Within the walls

And to top it off in the Conti-McBride partnership is Thomas Coll, a successful candidate who ran against Ray Taylor for the third district seat on the County Board of Supervisors.

Taylor is well established in his real estate and insurance business in Concord. Taylor, however, is still a familiar sight at supervisors' meetings and in the county buildings in Martinez.

TAYLOR BOULEVARD has also been named for the 16-year veteran of board hassles.

The attorneys make out

The races for municipal judge in Concord and justice court judge in Walnut Creek were both unique. In Walnut Creek it had been the first contest in 25 years. In Concord it had been the first race since the creation of the court.

Judge John Garaventa was dropped from the bench by Louis J. McKanney and is now practicing law in Concord as he has done for many, many years.

C. TERENCE RING, who dropped a close decision to Judge Betsy FitzGerald Rahn, is still a partner in his own law firm of Ring, Turner and Ring in Walnut Creek.

Latest reports on ex-sheriff Harry A. Brown claim he is about to enter the real estate business. Brown was bounced from his four year post by Sheriff's Sergeant Walter F. Young.

And the educators

Ralph L. Harris will continue to be the superintendent of the three-school Sheldon District in El Sobrante. Harris ran against Floyd Marchus for county superintendent of schools after B. O. Wilson resigned.

Francis Collins, county district attorney for a number of years prior to his defeat in the June elections, is maintaining his law offices in the west end of the county.

Although the elections seem all-important at the time, every one seems to make out in the long run.

Back at the capitol

The most historic legislative session in history has come to a close in Sacramento and our legislators, Jerry Waldie and George Miller Jr., have been "up to their ears" since January.

Briefly here is what they have participated in as related by Governor Edmund G. (Pat) Brown to the National Newspaper Publishers Convention in Los Angeles recently.

"Although California has always been a progressive State, it has long lagged behind the leaders in the field of civil rights. In the last six months, however, we have made some giant steps, and I now feel that we can justifiably claim to have taken a place in the vanguard.

"The major achievement during the last session in Sacramento was the passage of an honest, forthright Fair Employment Practices Commission Act.

"THAT DIDN'T come overnight, of course. It has been a plank in the Democratic party's platform in this State. For years it has been pushed vigorously, although futilely, in the Legislature by such veteran workers for civil rights as Assemblyman Byron Rumford of Berkeley and Assemblyman Gus Hawkins, in Los Angeles.

"I am signing two more far-reaching pieces of civil rights legislation passed in this recent historic session in Sacramento.

"ONE, KNOWN as the Unruh Civil Rights Act, declares flatly and unequivocally that all citizens in California are free and equal, and are entitled to full equality of treatment.

"Specifically, it declares the legal obligation to treat all persons equally in accommodations, facilities, privileges and service in all business establishments.

"The other equally important legislation I am signing goes to one of the great problems of our time, especially in urban areas—discrimination in housing.

"A good many other important things were done by this Democratic Administration working with a Democratic Legislature.

"We increased social welfare assistance programs to meet the rising cost of living to those who have suffered most from it—the aged, the disabled and the blind.

"Unemployment compensation maximums went from $40 to $55 a week and the period of benefits went from 26 weeks to 39 weeks. Workmen's compensation and unemployment disability weekly maximums went from $50 to $65 each. Our medical care program was also improved.

"WITH THESE acts and others, I think Californians have earned the right to claim a place once again among the progressive, forward-moving states in the nation."

What our DA heard

John Nejedly was in Santa Barbara at a district attorney's convention last week when the governor said:

"Perhaps because the fields of public safety and law enforcement are inseparably part of the Governor's responsibility, I asked for and received passage of S.B.155 to deal in an enlightened manner with one aspect of the narcotics problem.

"This bill establishes a pilot clinic unit for narcotic treatment and control at Chino. Its purpose is to detect the use of narcotics by parolees and to prevent their re-addiction.

"IN JANUARY I proposed a comprehensive safety traffic program to reduce our highway accident toll.

"I still favor and will work for the adoption of a compulsory blood test to require that all drivers apprehended in traffic violations who are suspected of intoxication submit to testing for alcohol. This is an ENTIRELY SAFE and CONSTITUTIONAL requirement.

"I believe also that the highway patrol should be permitted to make use of scientific radar devices."

Local Natives and Nabobs Hobnobbed Haitian-Style

By MARIE MONAHAN

The beat of the native drums echoed throughout Happy Valley last Sunday afternoon.

And the tropical weather matched the tempo of the dances by Ruth Beckford and trope, the highlight of the Valley Art Center's "Haitian Holiday" held at the handsome house of the William Freemans from 4-7.

The weather was perfect for a late afternoon party around the punch bowl. Especially when the punch bowls were three huge plexi-glass containers holding ample samples of a Trader Vic's tropical concoction.

The U-shaped contemporary house hugging the ground and surrounded by a walnut orchard was the spacious setting for the Art Center benefit. . . At the door, Betty Zion of Lafayette and Edie Wagstaff of Walnut Creek shared ticket-taking tasks turning over their chores and chairs at 5:30 to Ruth Ford and Carol Anderson. It was the latter lady who confiscated the tropical punch recipe from her next-door neighbor Jean Bergeron.

Guests lined the benches around the pool for the 5:30 show of dances by Ruth Beckford and troupe, she an outstanding exponent of the modern dance and a protoge of the Katherine Dunham Group with whom she began her career. Here, the Henry Soubielles of Orinda who were with guests from the peninsula.

Ann and Dick Ward helping friends find seats, Ann wearing a pale citron green silk . . . A bright red coat brass-buttoned on Orinda's George Hauer. The Wellington Rays and Shirley and Bert Hotchkiss seating themselves on the diving board. The Charles Gibbses in a chatting group, their daughter Barbara home from her studies at Scripps College down south.

The quartet of drummers in native costume against a backdrop of bamboo lattice work from which were suspended art objects . . . The amazing coordination and relaxed rhythm of the dancers (A rolling head, yet!) rating loud and long rounds of applause.

The Phil Johnsens of Lafayette standing on the circular redwood dance platform built right in and around a patio oak tree . . . The Gordon Ainsworths of Orinda casually ensconced on the pooldeck as were the others. A bamboo raft with a paper parrot perched thereon floating gracefully in the pool.

This the handiwork of Peggy Mansfield of Orinda who helped other Art Center members make the colorful crepe-paper chickens and roosters that dotted the lawn.

In the throng . . . Marian Bignomi chatting with Oertel Roddick and Linda Renwick, all three local matrons students of the primitive dance . . . Merrie Morgan from behind the Bambache punch bowl, hailing her husband Bruce. The name "bambache" taken from the good-time dance of the peasants that was the troupe's most POPULAR number!

Under a big black straw hat was Mona Beaumont . . . The young set's Mary Clapp passing canapes . . . The Jack Eymans and Irv and Marian Julius admiring the primitive oil by Vidal, many of the paintings belong to Ginnie Barnett. She and her husband, Ed attending the fund-raising function with Susie and John Floyd. Art Center members Alverus Lund and Alice Cashin with their husbands . . . Mrs. Carl Jennings, in an embroidered sari, chatting with Bernice and John Ellis of Lafayette . . . Mildred Simon and Mabel Powell . . . Calypso-clothed Jim Stern finding his parents Dorothy and Julian Stern, the latter gent the Treasurer of the Valley Art Center. . . The Clifford Feilers, Penny and Mark Kermit pausing for a refreshing refill. Judy Howes in a group of young adults.

Irene and Bill Wilkinson of Orinda introducing their architect Roger Lee (his house for them won top national honors!) . . . With the Parker Stacks and Howard and Marie Converse this group going home to the Wilkinsons for dinner.

The party a huge success, deserving of such for its unusual flavor. All the local "natives" probably going home to practice in privacy shaking their shoulders and leaping in the air. It did look deceptively easy.

Boslar Attends State Convention For Women's Club

Mrs. Orin Boslar, library chairman of the Women's Club of Walnut Creek, had not had time to unpack her suitcases after returning from the state convention of California Federation at Fresno and the national convention of Women's Clubs at Los Angeles, when she headed south again. This time her destination was Bakersfield, where she participated in the state board meetnig and planning discussions led by state president of California Federation, Mrs. A. F. Benton of Hollywood.

A past president of the local club, Mrs. Boslar is state chairman of Epsilon Sigma Omicron and libraries.

Lee Fisher Will Marry Dr. Cresti

With the return from Europe of the Howard Fishers of Camino Pablo, Orinda, friends are learning of the engagement of their daughter Lee to Dr. Marcello Cresti of Italy.

The Orinda girl is a graduate of Acalanes and received her degree from the University of California in 1956 where she was a member of the Delta Zeta sorority.

She is now working in the nuclear physics department of the University of Padua where Dr. Cresti is a nuclear physicist.

The young couple first met here in Berkeley when both worked at the University of California radiation lab.

The wedding will take place this fall.

Examination Open For Dispatchers

The Navy has announced an examination for production dispatcher at a starting salary of $2.39 an hour.

The resulting list of eligibles will be used to fill vacancies at the Naval Air Station, Alameda, and various other Navy installations around the Bay area.

Appointments will be career-conditional.

Lynn Diane Thompson Marries Darrell Tilcock

When Lynn Diane Thompson and Darrell Tilcock were united in marriage at St. Stephens church in Orinda June 13, it was the groom's grandfather who officiated at the ceremony.

The 2 o'clock vows were solemnized by Reverend Howard P. McConnell, D. D. of Woodside.

The bride, daughter of the Del Thompsons of Las Palomas, Orinda, wore for her wedding a portrait gown of peau de soie, three-quarter length with a lace applique neckline.

The bridal entourage of bridesmaids Pam Trefts, Pam Owens and maid of honor Myrnie Decker were pretty in frocks of shell-pink organza with matching pink head caps.

The bride's bouquet, caught later at the reception by the Maid of Honor, was fashioned of white gladiolas and carnations. The bridesmaids carried nosegays of tiny spring flowers.

For her daughter's nuptials, Mrs Thompson chose a caped beige silk suit with a petalpink hat.

Her corsage was of pink baby roses as was that of the groom's mother Mrs. Walter Tilcock of Concord who wore a lime-green ensemble.

The bride has two brothers, Tim and Clark and was graduated from Miramonte this year.

The benedict is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tilcock of Concord and has a younger brother Pat. His grandparents are Mrs. Ida Campbell of Concord and the Reverend Howard B. McConnell of Woodside.

Following a honeymoon trip to Canada, the newlyweds will make their home in San Bruno.

On The Lighter Side

By DORRIS DALY

The Gods and Goddesses of ancient Greece must have surely looked down with approval upon the splendor of the Pompeian decor last Saturday in the Concord Elks Hall.

Between pillars of synthetic marble was the ornate stone figure of a Grecian woman (coolest in the hall) who stood beneath a fountain that sprayed continuously over her as tiger lilies floated about the ripples at her feet.

All was in purple and white from the small Grecian hurricane lamps which had been sprayed with the two colors, to the lavender wisteria that effectively adorned tables and corners. Frank Bach's six piece orchestra was encircled by white Greek fencing and a huge mural depicting a civilization of the past, hung notably by the dancers. The mural had been created by art students of Mt. Diablo High School and is certainly a credit to their talents.

All this artistry was accomplished by the Diablo Area Council for the Beta Sigma Phi to benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Foundations. Chairman was Mrs. Vernon Ament. Other committee heads were: Mesdames Kenneth Bardon, refreshments; Ted Novak, decorations; Richard Van Dyke, publicity; and Larry Malone, tickets. Mrs. Russell Walton and Mrs. John Flannery also helped with the plans.

Much activity in the baseball world . . .

"Hey, rabbit ears! . . . Ya can't even hit the backstop."

"Hustle around there, skinny kid—he can't toss a bagger!"

. . . Perpetual motion in beaked caps and rubbed-cleated shoes has been channeled into productive play and what were sandlotters are now minor leaguers under the supervision of the Lafayette Youth Association.

The enthusiasm that exudes from dozens of four-footers is contagious and the sportsmanship between the teams is a rewarding thing to behold.

Overheard at the "American" vs "Lincoln" game: "Anybody seen Steve?" . . . "Aw, he's got the measles." . . . This brought nine pair of shoulders to a sagging position as Steve Kapci pitches for "American," but "Deke" Dekay filled in beautifully. Doing an equally good mound job for "Lincoln" were Arnold Park and Steve Eldridge under coach and ex-naval aviator, Austin Whitaker. Another pint-sized powerhouse is "Rickey" Finch who tosses a fireball for "Campana."

Coaches and sponsors in the association: A. E. Holmstrom, L.Y.A.; Bill McCarrel, Campana Music; Harry Radcliffe, Lafayette Rental; Bill Smith, Lafayette Pharmacy; Don Hart, American Nat. Ins.; Austin Whitaker, Lincoln Development; Steve Ames, Gastons Fr. Cleaners; David Bullen, La Fiesta Merchants; Jack Kirkpatrick, Sports and Game; Robert Weeks, Jacuzzi Whirlpool Baths; Phillip Carmona, Sun Valley Lumber; Angelo Rossi, Orchard Nursery; Burt Christensen, Rheem Center Merchants; Ray Sulprizio, Golden Bear Motors; and Ray Bohannon, Judd's (anonymous sponsor).

Nocturnal rays from the land of the Rising Sun reflected on many beaming faces around the pool at the Lafayette home of Dr. and Mrs. William Picard for the "June Night" party given by the Orinda Branch of the Children's Hospital. White Japanese lanterns with streamers of miniature pink and white rose buds topped bamboo poles which were crossed and driven into the ground and pink and white toppiary trees studded the entrances to enhance the moonlight dancers with the atmosphere of the Far East.

And now, the wardrobe bit . . .

As the night slipped by, a number of the guests took to the pool for a change of temperature, but two brunettes, both size nines, took to exchanging gowns! . . . Well, isn't that a woman's prerogative? . . . Mrs. William Beckett was wearing a white silk dress with green and yellow dots, accentuated by a green cumberbund, when she became attracted by the white tucked organdy worn by Mrs. Ralph Hill. The exchange was unsuccessful, however, as each preferred her own gown after all. . . . This sort of speculation could really cause chaos among the smartly dressed if it were to get out of hand. . . .

Imagine 30 women eyeing each other's ensembles! With a little ingenuity, one could swap last spring's print for this fall's worsted. . .

Mrs. Ralph Hill, who deserves credit for the delicate decorations, brought a number of guests from Orinda: Messrs. and Mesdames James Irwin, James Christensen, Douglas Kelly, George Redmond, and Phillip Vandivier, who with their two children will soon leave for the East as he has been appointed vice-consul to Malaya.

Vandivier has been studying Indonesian relations at the University of California in preparation for his four-year stay in Malaya. Others attending the gala affair were the James Ritchies, Lloyd Swayne Jrs., Ralph E. Macduffs, Welton Smiths, Arthur Woodruffs, Phillip Johnsons, Arthur C. Scheus, Nicholas Koerners, George Lemkes, Paul Walkers and Col. and Mrs. Oliver Burden.

GADS! Doesn't ANYone stay home? Lafayette has missed: The Lee Schells. They took their new trailer (also Peggy, Gordon and Billy) to Yosemite and had a wonderful time playing house. Dick and Thelma Rockwell. They were the guests of the Richard Chioccas at their social dancing "Corte Club Club" held at the Alamo Women's Club. "Red" and Barbara Barckley will sail for Hawaii in July . . . Barbara is on the mend with a back injury . . .

The George Sankos will try camping with son John (Cub Scout who will undoubtedly be able to give them the last word) along with the Bill Witherwaxes. Out f the Los Angeles smog and into the Lafayette sunshine were the George Brinkmans, houseguests of daughter Virginia Smith and son-in-law Stuart.

Bill and Ruby Banks and children will be at Lake Shasta for a week to be joined by John and Helen Helm and boys. Cis and Joe Adams and five children will be at Bucks Lake for a 10-day rest. Ann and Howard Hearn will fly with their five children to Tucson, Arizona, for a 10-day visit with Ann's parents. The Bob Heatons will journey to Donner Lake with boys Larry, David and Jeff to help the Lee Schells build their new cabin . . . and perhaps squeeze in a little boating and fishing in the off momnts.

And the Orinda contingent, too . . .

Orinda has also had some temporary vacancies: Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Moore left for Salt Lake City and Yellowstone National Park to return via Las Vegas and Soouthern California. The Andrew Catheralls made a quick trip to Tucson to pick up their college son. Carl and Jean Dudley returned recently from a combined business-pleasure trip to New Orleans and Houston.

The Stanley Majkas had guests recently whom they hadn't seen since May 30, 1930, in Belgrade, Yugoslavia. Lt. Col. and Mrs. Richard Coombs and their two sons, Michael and Ricky, stopped to reminisce before traveling on to Taipai, Formosa. Lt. Col. Coombs, U.S. Army, and Cmdr. Majkas, USNR, were on duty in the Balkans years back when they each met and married two members of the staff of the U. S. Embassy.

Daughters of the American Revolution held a patio picnic at the Danville home of Mrs. B. R. Draper. The Esperanza chapter discussed plans for a rummage sale to be held this August in Oakland; proceeds to help support historical and educational projects of the DAR.

Members from Walnut Creek were Mesdames Fred Vincent Jr., Fred Kellaway, and Mrs. R. A. Garretson. Guests were Mrs. John Fuller from Alamo, Mrs. Vance Warner from Danville, and Mrs. Carlton D. Bailey from Walnut Creek.

The wettest wash of all, yet

If you are driving around with summer dust on your hood, then you have obviously missed the most delightful carwash yet to have been held in Orinda. Eight to ten pair of blue jeans and bare feet clambered with the aid of hoses and a vacuum in and about the cars of amused motorists as ambitious young ladies of the "Bobolink's (Miramonte High) unit of the Mt. Diablo Therapy Center held a carwash at the Shell Station. Other members of the "Bobolinks" joined in after having completed their cake sale held in the Lucky Market and the Sprouse Reitz store, also in Orinda.

With all this help, something HAD to happen to fill in the spare moments, so, with hoses still in hand, the girls doused each other as envious customers sweltered in the heat. Judy Courtright, Sue Henry, Pat Flint, Micheile Angelo, Dana Cook, Irene Waschmirth and Kathy Calhoun were among the merry maids who managed to stay cooler than those of us who are more inhibited.

Techniques of Teaching Handicapped Described

School means the three Rs to most children, but to some it means minding their Ps and Qs—P for perseverance and Q for quest.

Perseverance and a constant quest for knowledge are necessary to learning the three Rs when a child is blind or deaf or partially so.

Likewise, perseverance and a constant quest for a solution to the child's problems are required to teach the handicapped.

ONE OF the most important aspects, according to Zella Parker of the county superintendent's office, is the recognition that these children are handicapped, that more than the usual methods of instruction must be used in their education.

Miss Parker, as coordinator of hearing and sight conservation services, works with schools to help parents, teachers and administrators cope with the problem and to modify the educational program accordingly.

Although local classes for blind children exclusively are still rare—in Contra Costa County operated by Pittsburg Unified and Walnut Creek alone—the increase in the number of blind entering the public schools has created a greater demand for materials in Braille.

Books are purchased from the American Printing House for the Blind at Louisville, Kentucky, and the cost of their purchase—also of other materials for the blind—is shared by the local school district and the state.

FOR PARTIALLY sighted children there are sight saving books, printed in very large type.

Books from both state and private dealer sources are circulated by the Contra Costa County School Library.

Constantly improved equipment is vital to the advance in education of the handicapped.

For example, a table model hearing aid may now be used by the child with a slight hearing impairment or the youngster who confuses certain sounds, to hear the fine distinctions in pronunciation. The gadget is highly useful in the study of spelling, arithmetic and other subjects.

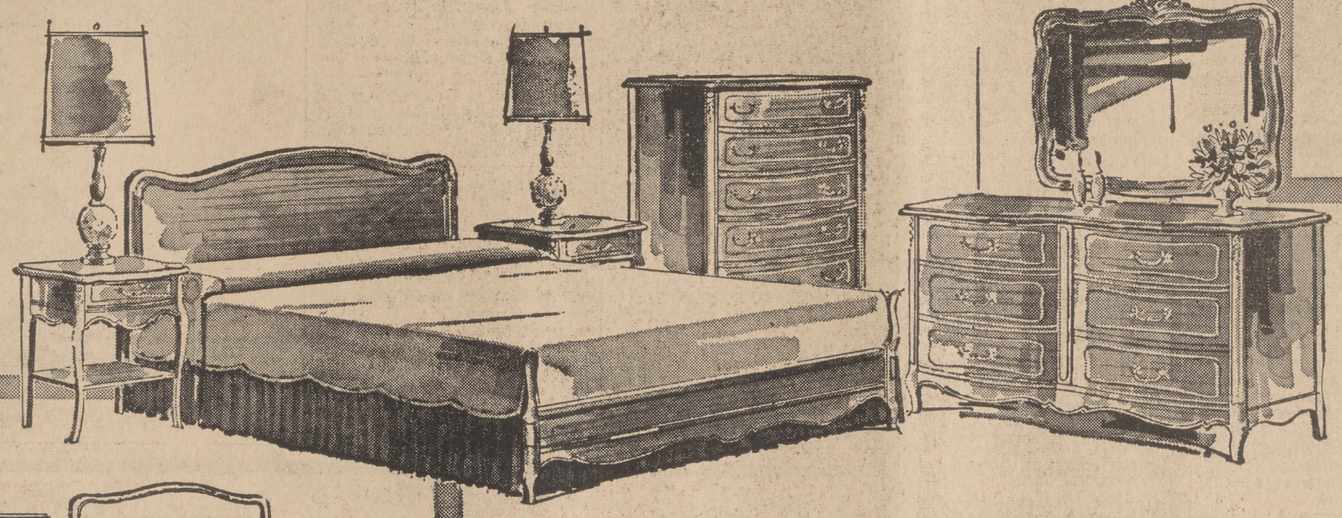

IT'S NOT always possible to tell under ordinary classroom conditions that a child is hard of hearing. Identifying the child who has a hearing loss is one of the services rendered by the office of the county superintendent. Miss Parker tested the hearing of 9115 students in 1958-59. Of that number 265 were found to have indications of impairment and were referred to a physician.

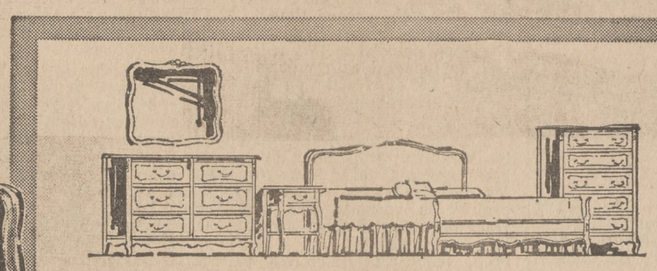

She and other students with serious hearing impairment learn the mechanics of speech by feel and "hear" by lip reading.

Road to Old Tunnel Paved With Weeds, Many Words

By MIKE KIMBALL

Nearly 30,000 motorists bridge the gap between Contra Costa and Alameda counties through the Broadway low tunnel every day. And they probably don't give much thought to the trouble their forefathers had in crossing the same barrier.

The old boys were faced with 330 feet of rock, resting on soapstone. They could either go over it, through it or avoid it.

For quite a while they avoided it.

Then, in 1879, work began on the Kennedy Toll road, an easy grade in contrast to the heavy slope of the Summit Road (Fish Ranch Road). Grading and surfacing was done by Chinese labor at the prevailing wage of $1 a day.

The tunnel bore was started simultaneously at both ends and was about one-fourth of the way through when the company met with financial difficulties and had to abandon the project.

A few people used the Kennedy Road until it became encroached with weeds and fallen logs. In time the open tunnel cuts on either side of the mountain were covered by brush.

YEARS ROLLED on. The infrequent travelers to Contra Costa used the Summit Road and were often thrown out of their buggies. An old resident later said "Many a story can be told how people lost their lives and others their limbs, to say nothing of damaged vehicles, ruined horses and destroyed goods on that road to Contra Costa."

In 1873 a group of citizens again began to cut into the mountain. They intended it to be a toll road and expected interested and financial assistance. The financial assistance didn't come and work was stopped for the second time.

The newly formed Merchants Exchange decided in 1895 to revive the tunnel debate, met with success and started the old now scarred ball rolling for the third time.

But they were stopped in their tracks three years later by a mass meeting held in Lafayette. The Contra Cosatns opposed the project on grounds that land values would go so high that no one would want to buy in the area. Time was taken out to educate these residents.

WHEN FINAL PLANS were drawn it was found that three-fifths of the tunnel lay on the Contra Costa side and by law Contra Costa had to pay that proportion of the cost. Again this end of the project balked.

Eventually we coughed up our share and, after the first bids had been rejected, the counties themselves began construction. A private company handled part of the job for a 10 per cent superintendency.

Alameda County paid $35,772.67. Contra Costa reluctantly handed over the rest.

The first tunnel was opened November 4, 1903.

A reconstruction job was done by the state in 1936, and the present Broadway low level tunnel was used for the first time on December 5, 1937.

Kuchel Denounces Moves To 'Raid' Contracts Here

Moves of New York members of Congress to "raid" California's aircraft, missiles, and other defense production industry were attacked as "bad national policy" by U. S. Senator Thomas H. Kuchel of California.

THE NEED of national defense should be the sole yardstick used by the Armed Services in placing weapons contracts, the senior California senator said in a speech opposing a bill of Senators Javits and Keating of New York to require distribution of orders on a geographical basis and with regard for unemployment.

"The Federal purchase of new instruments of mass destruction is not made to benefit the economy of our country nor of any state or section of it," Kuchel said.

"We spend these prodigious sums from the public treasury . . . 'to provide for the common defense.' We do not deal here with the question of economically depressed communities. We deal here with the crucial problem of survival."

Saying the law proposed by the New York congressional delegation "is totally and fundamentally wrong," Kuchel objected the pending Javits - Keating bill "would defeat the very objective it seeks to achieve."

"WERE DEFENSE contracts now to be made, as S. 1875 provides, upon considerations of the economy of a given area, the resulting plant relocations, dislocations among industrial workers and skilled technicians would destroy the efficiencies which present defense department policy has helped provide. It is unthinkable to me that anyone can seriously propose imposing these unnecessary burdens upon defense procurement agencies at this or any time."

The California senator, who also is Republican whip of the senate, pointed out California has "pioneered" in aircraft development and production.

Remarking on the "staggering" amount of time required to develop and produce airplanes, he called attention to technical problems involved in fabricating more complex missiles and rockets.

California, Kuchel said, has urgently-needed technological facilities, trained labor forces, industrial know-how, good weather, and nearness to test facilities.

These factors are among reasons the defense department has awarded large volumes of work to California manufacturers, he said.

The federal government already has a policy of dispersing defense industry and installations, the California senator told his colleagues, but this is based on "military necessity" rather than on economic considerations.

The armed services should be free, subject to controls over prices and profits exercised by the general accounting office to pick the company most competent to do the desired job, Kuchel maintained.

Present procurement methods are designed to "set aside" certain types of volumes of work for negotiation with firms in labor surplus areas, he added, saying "To insist upon advertising competitive bidding for all defense contracts would destroy the great advantage in lead-time which the present system has produced."

Here Are Some Good Rules For Your Vacation Driving

Vacation season in California is the time when the family car gets its fullest, most popular use.

Department of Motor Vehicles administrators make several recommendations to vacationing motorists, mostly based on the California Vehicle Code.

See that your car is in safe and efficient condition mechanically, and that all required equipment is in good working order.

Plan where possible to make your longer drives on weekdays.

Make it a point to avoid the heavier week end and holiday traffic as much as you can.

Use built-in controls on your own patience and good temper on the highway.

Impatience and scorn for other drivers kill courtesy, and may kill more than that.

Remember there are many people driving on highways that are strange to them, looking for unfamiliar signs, landmarks, and destinations.

To resent this is inhuman. On the other hand, such exploration should be done without impeding traffic. Courtesy works two ways.

Keep in mind that the most common causes of accidents, according to law enforcement agency statistics, are: excessive speed; right-of-way violations; improper turning without proper signaling; driving on the wrong side of the road; following too closely; drunk driving; failure to observe stop signs and signals; and improper passing.

If your driver's license expires during the summer, make an appointment to renew it before it becomes worthless. The law permits you to apply for a renewal as much as six months before the expiration date of your license for your convenience.

Be alert to the requirements of traffic safety, traffic laws, the conditions of traffic on the roadway—and remember the practical advantages of courtesy on the road as a factor favoring your personal safety.

Clubs Can Get Guide Dog Film

Club chairmen are invited to send for a new film put out by Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc. A 24-minute sound and color motion picture, "The San Rafael Story," illustrates the day by day training of blind students and their dogs during the four weeks spent at the school.

To reserve the picture write program director, Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc., San Rafael, allowing two weeks for mailing. There is no charge.

Upon special request, a trainer and dog will give an obedience demonstration for larger clubs in the Bay Area.

The trainer will also tell how the miracle of a Guide Dog is produced, starting with the school's breeding program, on to the day the man-dog teams graduate.

Ice Follies Plans Shows For Week End

Five Ice Follies performances have been scheduled over the Fourth of July weekend to accommodate out-of-town visitors who traditionally trek to San Francisco from cities scattered all over the state to see the ice spectacular.

GOOD SEATS at the Winterland arena are still available for performances Friday evening at 8:30, Saturday at 2:30 and 8:30, and Sunday at 1:30 and 5:30, according to Winterland manager George J. Campbell.

Fresh from setting attendance records in their annual tour of 21 U. S. and Canadian cities, the 1959 show appears well on its way towards upsetting its 1958 attendance record in the Bay Area.

Tickets are available at the Winterland box office (WAlnut 1-0112), Post and Steiner Streets and the Downtown Center Box Office in San Francisco and at Sherman Clay in Oakland.

Regular performances of the show are held at 8:30 p.m. except for Sundays and Mondays.

Voters' League Hears J. Waldie From Assembly

The League of Women Voters of Concord-Diablo Valley will entertain prospective members at dessert-coffee at the home of Mrs. John Irving at the foot of Mt. Diablo, 1200 North Gate Road, Concord. Arrangements are being made by Mrs. James Keating, area membership chairman and Mrs. John Holt, first vice president.

The honorable Jerome Waldie, assemblyman from the 10th assembly district will report to the membership on bills passed by the state legislature in its recent session. Of special interest to league members is legislation concerning mental and public health, public education, alcoholic beverage control, operation of the legislature, social welfare, public personnel merit system and election procedures.

The League of Women Voters has made studies in these areas of government and has taken stands on them. At present the membership throughout the state is studying the water resources problem. Thus they are particularly interested in what the passage of the state department of water resources California Water Plan will mean to the state. After the program members and guests are invited to swim in Mrs. Irving's pool.

One more summer meeting is planned for August 27. Mrs. H. O. Booth, foreign policy chairman, is making arrangements for the showing of the TV film, "The Face of Red China" which recently won an award for outstanding news coverage for CBS television network.

Regular program activities will resume in September.

Car Stolen? No, Neighbor Victim Of Monday Fog

In Illinois, a commuter by car dashed out of his house one Monday morning, started to dash into his car, and discovered it wasn't there.

Back into his house he dashed, called the local police, and soon they had out an "all points bulletin" on another stolen car.

Ten minutes later, reports the National Automobile Club, the commuter called the police again, told them to stop the search, he had found his car.

Seems that his neighbor owned an identical model, had left that model at a garage on Sunday night, in his Monday morning daze had forgotten about that little fact, had stepped into our commuter's car, and driven off to work.

By the time he got to work the fog had lifted, detailed recognition of reality had set in, and his fast phone call to our commuter solved the mystery of the missing car.

FIFTY PLAYERS, representing the finest prep football graduates in the state, will begin workouts late in July in preparation for the big game. Each section will have a 25-man squad, with all players having graduated from school since last football season.

Shell X-Rays Described by Two Chemists

The most intense source of X-radiation in the world is located in the research laboratories of Shell Development Company in Emeryville, an article in a scientific journal disclosed today.

Chemists C. D. Wagner and V. A. Campanile said in an article in the magazine Nucleonics that they devised an improvement on Shell's Van de Graff accelerator so that the machine will produce a beam with an intensity of 100,000,000 Roentgens of X-radiation per hour.

THIS IS five times more intense than previously obtainable with the Van de Graaf and 100 to 1000 times more intense than cobalt-60 sources and most nuclear reactors, they said. Moreover, it has the advantage over reactor sources that no neutrons are present, so that substances placed in the beam do not become intensely radioactive.

The X-rays are produced when a beam of 3 million volt electrons strikes a cold target. The problem served by the two scientists was to remove efficiently from the target the 3000 watts in the form of heat that are generated at the same time, so that the beam can be concentrated in a small area.

This was done by means of a thin stream of cooling water passing just beneath. The beam can now be scanned over an area only an inch long by an eighth of an inch wide, and samples may be irradiated only a fourth of an inch below the target.

THE NEW source of X-rays will be used to study the way molecules react under this form of radiation. It will make possible the use of X-radiation in many experiments that previously would have been too time-consuming. Experiments that would have taken hours or days to complete can now be done in a matter of minutes.

Rich Rewards Await Those Who Garden in the Shade

The California Association of Nurserymen is the first to admit that gardening in the shade — especially deep shade—is a challenge to the average gardener.

But the rewards are rich to those who persevere and win.

ONE SHRUB that not only tolerates the shade but actually thrives in a dark spot is the popular Gold Dust Plant.

The large glossy leaves are flecked with gold and, as if this weren't decoration enough, bright red berries appear in the fall, provided a pollenizer plant is located nearby.

One of the most spectacular and hardiest of the shade-loving plants is Florist's Cyclamen.

It features large flowers in white or in appealing shades of pink, rose or red. It blooms from November to April, but bulbs should be planted in the summer. Or plants already in bloom are available at nurseries.

For annual color, shady spots will brighten up with Cinerarias and the lovely old-fashioned Mignonette.

Of course for light shade or filtered sun, you have a bevy of garden aristocrats to pick and choose.

Among these are the Camellias, Rhododendrons, Fuchsisa, Azaleas and, of course, Tuberous Begonias. A garden of these alone would be enough to stop traffic in all directions.

HEAVENLY BAMBOO with its feathery foliage and fall color is ideally suited to a corner shade plantings or as a specimen does India Hawthorn for foundation plantings as as a specimen does not mind a certain dearth of sunlight either.

Your nurseryman has a list of shade-loving plants as long as a hoe handle, so don't hesitate to ask him for suggestions. Planting a beautiful shade garden is a challenge well worth accepting

Spray Begonias Before Mildew Begins to Show

Here are the things to do in your garden this week:

Keep watching tuberous begonias for sign of mildew. Best control is to spray before it shows up.

Keep transplanting bearded iris that are crowded. Save only the strong, healthy new growths. Check nurseries for new bearded iris varieties.

Provide shade for transplanted nursery seedlings. A shingle will do the trick very nicely

Keep after snails and slugs with bait or pellets. Control is so easy, there's no excuse for letting them damage your plants.

Cut back marguerites to keep them in good shape and to freshen them for the new blooms.

Credit Unions, Social Security Objectives Told

Federal credit unions and old-age, survivors, and disability insurance programs have a common objective, Morgan J. Shea, district manager of the Berkeley social security office, declared recently.

Both of these programs of the Social Security Administration are examples of how people in a free economy can cooperate with their government to help themselves, he pointed out.

SHEA MADE this statement in connection with the Federal Credit Unions' 25th anniversary.

Federal social insurance helps workers to build financial protection for themselves and their families in the event of the breadwinner's retirement in old-age, or his disability, or death.

Federal credit unions make it possible for groups of people to organize and operate a thrift and loan program to improve their financial welfare during their working years.

Millions of families have been provided some security through the savings of 5½ million members of these unions.

Federal credit unions, like the old-age, survivors, and disability insurance program, are self-supporting.

Both programs operate without general revenue funds.

Social security insurance benefits are provided by the social security tax on workers' earnings; all expenses of the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions are financed by charter supervision, and examination fees paid by the individual credit unions.

More than 9,300 groups of people now operate federal credit unions. Savings under the program now total $2 billion and members are adding to this economic security fund at the rate of nearly $1 million a day.

Health Insurance Plans Made for Senior Citizens

Voluntary health insurance has the capacity to help meet the challenge of providing soundly-financed programs of protection against the costs of medical care for the growing number of people over age 65, a health insurance spokesman recently told Congress in Washington.

This information was received by John F. Wight, president of the East Bay Hospital Conference, made of Bay Area's hospitals.

J. F. Follman, Jr., director of information and research of the Health Insurance Association of America, spoke before the subcommittee on problems of the aged and aging of the senate committee on labor and public welfare on the final day of public hearings to discuss present and future ways of assuring adequate health care for those in their later years.

Subcommittee hearings being held are preparatory to similar hearings in a number of cities throughout the country after congress adjourns later this year.

Stressing the importance of cooperative efforts by all groups interested in the welfare of the older aged, Follman said, "as individuals, labor unions, and employers become increasingly cognizant of the importance of health insurance protection in the later years, and since the voluntary mechanism by which this protection might be provided now exists, it is reasonable to expect that the coverage of persons over age 65 in future years will increase more rapidly than has been so in the past."

Follman detailed the recent growth in health insurance coverage for the population as a whole, reporting that today some three-fourths of the country had such protection, as against 30% coverage at the beginning of 1947.

Relating this to the senior population, he said:

"It would appear self-evident that the growth of coverage among persons under age 65 would bear some direct relationship to the number of the aged who will eventually be covered as those now under 65 move into retirement.

"This is graphically demonstrated by the fact that the percentage of all aged persons over age 70 having some form of voluntary health insurance in 1956 was exactly the same as the percentage of the entire population of all ages which was covered in 1946, namely 30%."

Insurance companies have created various forms of protection specifically designed for persons in their later years and which are available today, he told the subcommittee.

Among such plans are: Continuation of insurance on older active workers under group plans; continuation of group insurance on retired workers and their dependents, with employers sharing premium costs; conversion from group contract to individual policy upon retirement; issuance of group insurance at advanced ages; continuation of individual policies purchased before retirement; individual policies for advanced ages; and insurance which becomes paid up at age 65.

"It would seem clear, then, that voluntary health insurance of quality is generally available to our senior citizens who desire such protection," Follman said.

Therapist Gets Scholarship For Second Time

Nada Miller, speech therapist at Mt. Diablo Therapy Center, has again been awarded a scholarship by the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, Washington.

Currently attending the conference and workshop on cleft palate therapy at the University of Iowa, Miss Miller was the recipient of a similar grant in 1958 for graduate study in the field of stuttering.

According to the center's administration, Juanita Benoy, it is estimated that 510 children of Central Contra Costa County have received speech and hearing services at the center since the departments was established in 1954.

Who Put the Fireworks In the Fourth of July?

Who put the fireworks in the Fourth of July?

Much of the credit goes to John Adams, according to the World Book Encyclopedia.

The founding father declared that Independence Day "ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires, and illuminations, from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward for evermore."

So, from that time forward, the birthday of the U.S. has been marked by brilliant explosions of color and noise . . . and the deaths and accidents that invariably accompany them.

Americans, however, got the idea for fireworks from Europeans, who got the idea from the Arabs, who merely copied the Chinese.

In 1232 A.D., when a Chinese city was beseiged by Mongols, the defenders cooked up a batch of saltpeter, sulfur and charcoal and frightened their attackers with "arrows of flying fire."

Arabs were quick to copy these weapons, which probably were rockets. The Crusaders brought them back to Europe, where the Italians discovered that they made fancy exhibitions as well as formidable weapons.

By the time fireworks spread to England and France, figures and structures of wood and plaster had been added.

In 1520, when Henry VIII met Francis I on the field of the Cloth of Gold in northern France, the historic moment was celebrated by the appearance of a huge dragon that thundered across the sky breathing fire.

By the 1600's, fireworks had developed into such an art that two schools of thought had arisen to argue over methods of display.

The southern school, centered in Italy, concentrated on building elaborate structures such as castles and temples, from which the fireworks were exploded. The technique of setting off the fireworks was shrouded in mystery.

The northern school, influenced by the Protestant movement in Germany, thought the Italian procedure smacked of popery. The northerners exhibited their fireworks before the show, for all to admire, and then made them the important part of the display.

While the two schools fumed over their firecrackers, fireworks crossed the Atlantic and became an American institution.

Five Games Left in Legion League

Comfortable Lead in One Play Div. For Richmond

The Junior Legion baseball schedule has but five games remaining and Richmond appears to be "in" as far as Division One is concerned. They have a comfortable four-game edge over second place Concord.

In Division Two, however, it's still nip and tuck as El Sobrante has a one-game edge over second place Martinez.

Rodeo and San Pablo are tied for third, two games behind the leaders.

In games over the weekend, Lafayette dropped a 4-0 decision to Concord Sunday after defeating Orinda 2-0 Saturday.

IN SATURDAY'S game, Orinda outhit Lafayette 7-4. Tom Strain on the mound for the winners displayed fine control as he didn't give up a walk over the nine innings while striking out eight and keeping the hits well scattered.

Each club had two errors. One of them came when, in the fourth, an Orinda overthrow enabled Lou Pejovich to score after he had singled to get on.

Gary Breklse scored the number two run when he rolled home from third on a wild ptich by Rob Anthonisen.

Batteries: Lafayette: Strain and Cosso; Orinda: Anthonisen, Hancock (7) and Welch.

In Sunday's game, Concord's Chuck Midland notched the win as he twirled a three-hitter to shut out Lafayette while his teammates collected single runs in the third and fifth and a pair in the seventh for the 4-0 win.

Each club had two errors and Concord collected nine hits.

Batteries: Concord: Midland and Piscovich. Lafayette: Toll and Cosso.

Orinda dropped a pair over the weekend, losing to Lafayette 2-0 Saturday and dropping an 8-6 decision to El Cerrito as the winners outhit them 10-6.

Scoring was heavy in the early innings as Orinda got two in the first and three in the second while El Cerrito scored three in each of the first two frames.

The issue was decided when Orinda managed but 1 more run—that coming in the fifth frame while El Cerrito got one run in the sixth and another in the eighth.

Batteries: Orinda: Anthonisen, Hancock (2) and Welch. El Cerrito: Lacy, Kayfess (2) and Fleming.

Walnut Creek and El Cerrito played but six innings on Saturday with a time limit finding El Cerrito outhitting the home club 8-7 to win 8-3 while each club had four errors.

El Cerrito scored one run in the opening inning and while Walnut Creek took a 2-1 lead when they scored a pair of runs in the first, but they couldn't hold it as they managed but one more run in the sixth while El Cerrito collected three in the third, two in the fifth and another two in the sixth.

Batteries: El Cerrito: James and Fleming. Walnut Creek: Remy and Stephenson.

In Sunday's game, Richmond stayed undefeated as the club pounded out 10 hits to score nine runs to Walnut Creek's four on five hits.

Richmond played errorless ball while the losers committed six miscues.

Walnut Creek took the lead with a pair of runs in the first and added single runs in the sixth and ninth.

The Richmond nine scored two in the second, one in the fourth, two in the sixth, three in the seventh and one in the ninth.

Batteries: S. Wallace, Bowles (6) and Burton. Walnut Creek: Hanson, Ransome (5) and Stephenson.

In other games during the weekend, Martinez defeated Rodeo 11-7, El Sobrante topped San Pablo 6-5 and Harry Ells nailed North Richmond 8-7 on Sunday.

Other Saturday games found Martinez walloping Harry Ells 18-2, San Pablo rapped Rodeo 22-7, Richmond defeated Concord 10-4 and El Sobrante dropped North Richmond 4-1.

Legion standings through last Sunday are:

	W	L	Pct.	GB
DIVISION ONE

Sunday, July 5: Ells at El Cerrito, Martinez at Lafayette, El Sobrante at Walnut Creek, Concord at San Pablo, Richmond at Danville, Miramonte at Rodeo.

In county Babe Ruth baseball play the Lafayette Youth team chalked up a 10-3 win over visiting El Sobrante.

Kirby Young went the distance on the mound for Lafayette to notch the win.

Big blow of the game was a bases-loaded home run by Lafayette center fielder Steve Kosach.

GAMES THIS week in county Babe Ruth play are:

Saturday, July 4: El Cerrito at Pinole, Richmond Merchants at Pittsburg, Lafayette at Danville, North Richmond at El Sobrante, Richmond Stores at Rodeo.

AMERICAN LEGION ball is in full swing now with two divisions going every weekend. Bob Gillhem of Lafayette is out on a short toss to first in Saturday's game. Covering the sack for Orinda is Bob Gilbert. —Sun photo by Mattson.

Walnut Creek Merchants Win Cloober Derby Prizes

By JEAN McGUIRE

The annual destruction derby held at Contra Costa Speedway last week, may well be termed a "jarring" success, as thousands of spectators pushed their way in to watch the more than 100 accident prone entries. And I might add the night held tremendous "impact" for all of the derby drivers.

If you missed it you can well be disappointed, for it carried enough collisions, flips and fires to satisfy even the most rabid thrill seeker, with none of the painful aftermath that usually accompany these same deeds on the highways.

ALL DRIVERS were required to use seat belts and smash helmets, and all glass was removed. Even though much work was put into the appearance of the cars, painting, lettering, etc. the end result was enough to make a junk man turn up his nose.

The $50 cash award for the best appearing team of cars went to the Lou and Lee's Flying A foursome. Running them stiff competition were the red and silver jobs sponsored by Don's Upholstery and Bob's Sharp Shop.

The $150 first place winners were Bob Miller of Concord, Mike Bokros of San Jose, Jack Clayton, Hardtopper from Pleasant Hill, and Harry Stryker of San Mateo.

The $100 second place winners included Art Himsl of Concord, Woody Cargyle of Martinez, Ronnie Case, another hardtop boy from Concord, and Don White of Pleasant Hill.

50 THIRD place holders were Rudy Negherbon, Martinez; Brad McGuire, last year's champ, of Concord, Norm LaFleur, Concord, and Don Hargreaves of San Francisco.

Two groups tied for the championship, they were the Walnut Creek Go Carts team number 19, and team number 35, from Wally's Rentals in Walnut Creek.

Total cash prizes amounted to $1200. There was one donated prize, a set of seat covers from Don's Upholstery and Bob's Sharp Shop. This was won by Brad McGuire, for third place in the second heat.

Monday Is Final Day for Entries In Rodeo Classic

A reminder that Monday is the deadline for both arena and track entries for the California Rodeo at Salinas, July 16 to 19, was issued yesterday by L. M. "Mike" Tynan, president of California's oldest and greatest cowboy classic.

PRELIMINARY entry blanks may be obtained by writing California Rodeo headquarters, P.O. Box 1648, Salinas, California.

Judging the six arena events will be Carl Mendes, Visalia, and another outstanding cowboy still to be selected by Ki Silacci's Arena Committee. For the first time this year scores and decisions of the judges will be announced immediately after each cowboy has contested.

Judging the sixteen horse show classes will be William Schwindt, Saticoy; George C. Milias, Gilroy, will assist in judging the children's classes.

SOME 300 of the nation's top cowboys compete annually in the six arena events for purses which are the largest offered by any similar four performance rodeo in the world. The events are saddle and bareback bronc riding, bull riding, steer wrestling and calf and team roping.

For the first time this year, steer wrestling will be held on the track in order to give spectators a closer view of this hazardous and highly scientific event.

In addition to the horse show the track program includes the pick of the country's trick riders, the Buschom spotted horse liberty act and the famous Onodarko Riders.

Fish License Sales Boom

Sport fishing license sales are booming and a record year appears in the offing.

Fish and Game Director William E. Warne announced that sales through May have increased by 24 per cent over the comparable period last year. They are also 10 per cent ahead of 1957 when the department sold a record 1,433,817 licenses.

The increase of new anglers prompted Warne to urge that all sportsmen use fire with extreme caution while in the field.

"The fire hazard is exceedingly great this year because of the unusually dry winter and spring," he said.

"I ask all sportsmen to take extra care when they are out fishing and hunting this year. A carelessly tossed match or cigarette could result in great tragedy. Everyone knows that lives, property and forest resources are always endangered by fire, but sportsmen should know that they also stand to lose a great deal from fire which destroys game habitat and dries up fishing streams."

Warne said license figures through May 30 showed a total of 656,456 fishing licenses sold, 129,910 more than for the similar period in 1958.

The four were cited by Wardens E. P. Reynolds and A. E. Devers. Wardens Charles Dean Jr. and Harold Robb also participated in the case.

Castro's Stunning Display Of Skill, Speed Net Wins

By JEAN McGUIRE

Everything San Francisco's Julian Castro touched Saturday night at Contra Costa Speedway turned to gold for him.

In a stunning display of speed and skill, Castro was able to capture first place in the fastest fourth heat, the trophy dash, and the 25-lap main event.

CONSEQUENTLY, Julian took home the usual fifth event trophy, and also that of gorgeous, most coveted, City of Hope. trophy for the main.

Close at his heels for second place was BCRA champion Wally Baker, followed by fast qualifier, Gene Dudley of Napa.

Dudley is hoping to top leader Johnny Franklin in point standings in the 100 lap "Monza" style race tomorrow night. The Napa Flyer, 1957 driver champion, moved to within seven points of Franklin last week, 358 to 365.

FRANKLIN, rarely in an accident, was forced out of the main following a crackup with Ted Montague of Hayward, on the 11th lap.

Winners of the events were, first heat, Steve Mentch first, Lew Lawson second, and Cliff Bennett of Pacheco third.

Second heat, Ray Kelsey first, Mel Baker second, and Bob Nelson third.

Third heat, Ted Montague, Joe Sanchez, and Buzz Ball, in that order.

Fourth heat, Julian Castro, Johnny Franklin, and Leroy Gevin.

Trophy, Castro, Mentch and Montague.

Final heat, Lew Lawson, Ted Gratriex, and Johnny Franklin. Semi-main, Steve Mentch, Lew Lawson, and Ted Gratriex.

Main, Castro, Baker, Dudley, and Bob Fillippi.

TOMORROW night's feature will be run in three segments. The first two of 33 laps each, and the final covering 34.

Each segment will have a new start. Promoter Jack London, who introduced Monza style racing in northern California last year, said points will be awarded for each leg of the main, similar to a regular event, and the driver ending with the most points in the three leg totals will be the winner.

Here, upon many requests, is a complete rundown on driver points, including the June 27 program.

1. Johnny Franklin, Santa Rosa 365. 2. Gene Dudley, Napa 358. 3. Wally Baker, Sacramento 315. 4. Pee Wee Waybright, Oakland 272. 5. Ted Gratriex, Napa 213.

6. Carl Carr, San Francisco 199. 7. LeRoy Geving, Petaluma 198. 8. Dave Moreda, Santa Rosa 188. 9. Nelson Snow, San Pablo 173. 10. Jack Huddleston, Concord 140.

11. Tom Greene, San Francisco 137. 12. Bob Duval, San Francisco 137. 13. Steve Mentch, Oakland 131. 14. Julian Castro, San Francisco 129. 15. Ed Lopus, Santa Rosa 123.

16. Lee Humphers, Richmond 113. 17. Jack McCleod, Napa 112. 18. Jack Clayton, Pleasant Hill 98. 20. Mel Baker, Sacramento 91. 21. Bill Maher, Vallejo 86. 22. Ed Bingelli, Santa Rosa 78.

PLATINUM COMBATS CORROSION

Methods have recently been developed for covering base metals with platinum metal alloys for use in equipment where extreme corrosion-resistance is required.

Gary Casey Will Play in Eighth Annual All-Star

If Gary Casey can repeat one of the greatest single game running exhibitions in the history of Contra Costa prep football, then the South is in for trouble the night of Aug. 7 in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Casey and 24 North All-Star teammates will arrive in Los Angeles in late July to prepare for the eighth annual Shrine football game.

Last fall Casey ran wild for five touchdowns and 335 yards in leading Mt. Diablo's Red Devils to a 32-20 victory over El Cerrito high school.

Twice he broke loose on kickoff returns that measured 96 and 65 yards for scores. Punt returns of 65 and 84 yards picked up two more touchdowns and a fifth score came on a 25-yard end sweep.

Because his team had an abundance of fleet backs, Casey was used sparingly as a ball carrier. Yet, he averaged 12 yards per carry and scored 11 touchdowns.

The 6' 2", 180-pound wingback is a three-year veteran, with all-league honors twice. Off the gridiron he is a better-than-average hurdler with marks of 19.7 seconds in the lows and 15.1 in the highs. He also has two basketball letters

The future, at present, will rest in the northwest. Casey plans to enroll at Oregon or Oregon State in the fall.

With My Eyes Wide Open

CURB SERVICE . . . Commuters waiting at the Orinda Pharmacy can brush up on Buffalo Bill, broaden their vocab or learn basic Spanish via the pocketbook stand. But for some strange reason (lack of romance?) they prefer to peruse "Famous Love Scenes from Famous Plays" judging from the tired dog-eared copy that was finally removed recently. (Aw, shucks & you never finished that LAST chapter?)

At the Village Cleaners Library-lady Sib O'Flaherty exchanging the usual amenities, remarked to prop. Ernest Poll that she hadn't seen him at the Library recently. "Yes, I must come in soon," said Ernest, "there's a book by so & so I want to read." Sib pricked up her ears, picked up her pkgs. & departed. Two days later Ernest Poll received a call, "Your book is ready." And THAT is service for you, dear heart, dear Sib, Good Library!

The youngsters aren't the ONLY ones who take the turns & curves here at a precarious pace. Slow down, there, Pop! Fathers in their new foreign cars are WORST offenders. Could be much worse than dented fenders!

A tippy-toe trek into the new Orinda Store gift shop is like tripping into the same plush trappings of Pasadena's Bullocks or Magnin's. Plans for the finished store are on view in the niche, NICE!

Sounds like a perfect formula:

HOME from Europe & a month's tour of the continent are Howard & Margaret Fisher of Camino Pablo who met their dghtr. Lee in Venice & she accompanied them to Stockholm. Friends here are now learning of Lee's engagement, recently announced in Italy, to Dr. Marcello Cresti. He is a nuclear physicist at the U. of Padua where Lee is currently employed in the same dept. but the couple first met back here in Berk. at the radiation lab. It looks like a Perfect Formula: 1 Nuclear Physicist, 1 Nuclear physicist research lady equals 1 Engagement. Wedding is slated for Fall.

Recipients of a rousing Surprise last Sun. nite were Ron & Dolly Light, former Orindans who now live high on Reliez Valley Rd. in Laf. . . . Some 34 friends took them completely unaware w/a Pool-Warming Party, a buffet-barbecue sprang up as if by magic (dessert, a huge cake decked w/figurines swimming in a pool & wishing the Lights "Jolly Times"). Dolly was gifted a bottle of champagne, towel-wrapped, with which to christen the pool which is named "Bonny London" after their 3 little Lights, Bonny, Lon & Don. Pals presented the overwhelmed pair w/a unique floating tray w/12 tumblers aboard, each filled w/silver dollars wrapped in gold foil. Dolly capsized it swimming out to it (oh, the dickens!) & the highlight of the night was Dolly & Ron surface-diving for their buried treasure.

ANYHOW, guests in on this Masterpiece of a Party (5 wks. it took of efficient organization) must be commended for not letting the secret leak out. (To say the least, the Ladies deserve spec. attn. for accomplishing this feat!) ANYHOW, as we were about to say, the following were in on the fun—The Art Schwatkas (they move to Montclair soon!) the Jim Hills, Bill Courtrights, Bob Lymans, Karl Rigors, Shirley & Elliott Shub, Calvin Golds, all of Orinda, Lee & Peg Winters, the David Brodys, Lyle Bishops, Bill Sheerans, Louis Ellises of Lafayette, the Jack Shaws of PH, Mel Harveys, Louis Ellises, Jim Trezonas & Mike Bornsteins of Concord & W.C.

The newly-wedded Darrell Tilcocks (Lynn Thompson) did their First Family Washing sooner than expected in their marriage . . . On the first lap of their Honeymoon, Canada-bound, they were stopped in Marin Co. by some mean old unromantic policeman who made them wash off all the poster-paint postscripts splashed on their car windows by well-wishing neighbors (young boys & OLDER ones, too!)

To Welcome neighborhood-newcomer Donna McNeil, Sylvia Nelson held a morning Coffee Hob-Nob mid-June at her Mariposa Lane menage. Juice & crackers for the Young Fry, fresh fruit, berries & pastries & coffee for the ladies. Kay Paine baked & brought the BIGGEST Stollen we've ever seen, like something out of an old-time German Bakery.

Friends are felicitating the Art Halls (Pat Edwards) on their recent marriage . . . They are now in a new house on Camino Pablo & w/the boys enjoying their boat on wknds. Up The Delta.

Are you a member of HPL?

"Glad to be alive!" says Bill Goldsworthy, whom we nominate for President of the Husbands Protective League & the Don't-Do-It-Yourself Society. Week ago, (alright, alright, you read it in the city papers!) Bill was out in the yard w/the old buzz-saw & forgot to use the ground-conductor gadget. He turned black & blue, wife Helen almost got it too, but instinctively pulled out the plug & everyone is Very Much Alive & Glad to be so, thanks!

Health Bulletin: That RED EYE going the rounds some time now, don't blame it on the Chlorine! It's Pink Eye, NASTY & Contagious!

Then there was Betty Pilgrim & her children who were fairly shook up recently in a Tunnel collision when they were headed for Rio Del Mar at 8:30 in the thick of commute traffic. (A flighty little foreign car the cause!) Young Richard Pilgrim showed great presence of mind & deserves an extra boy scout badge for quick-thinking!

Bob & Sylvia Cox tooled up the coast to Canada in their new low-slung white convertible. Coming back through Customs, the Ranger called them back. Nothing to get nervous about, just the Ranger's curiosity. He wanted them to demonstrate that Darling Automatic Teamaker on the car. Which tickled the British-bred Sylvia So Much!

Their dghtr. Susan guested w/us during their holiday & we'd like to add, (having no Sixteeners around ourself!) It was a Pleasure! (We are, however, STILL picking up bobby pins!)

The Hankses postal the Yedidias that they'll be back from Europe July 20!

Tom Ferguson, Jr. was elected a Group Leader at Salt Lake's Brigham Young U. where he is attdg. a summer session.

WHEN you ask young Master McEligot what he'd like to be when he grows up, his fair little face lights up "A Doctor — & a Flier — Just like My Dad!"

No, Dear, those AREN'T Beatniks, just Pine Grove summer school teachers growing beards so they'll be right in style at the Oregon Centennial this wknd. which many are planning to attend. Mid-wk, Gary Lawrence's was the longest, measured at 2 inches!?

ALSO going up for the Centennial celebration to parade w/the well-known Weldonian Band are the Kenneth Geides, Alice & Kenny king-size & their jr. sized Kenny & Alice. Young Kenny plays the cymbals & marimbas, little Alice twirls the baton!

RECORD HOPS, a mid-summer night's dream come true for Frankie Schwedhelm (& sponsored by she & hubby Carl of the Patio Music Shop) will start tonight & every Fri. nite Under the Stars on the spacious patio at Rheem. There'll be pops-record prizes for dance contests & all are invited, young in heart, young in feet, 7-11 the time!

Out Rheem Way, the bridge bouts are going heavy these hot summer nights. You can tell where the sessions are being played in this Mad-About The Game Moraga area by whose house has all the cars lined up out front.

AND, MY! But Mother Earth is taking a pushing around out there these days, getting set for a sizeable bowling alley, garden apts., bank & med center. The med center sits on a slope. Do you suppose we'll call it Pill Hill? & WHAT will the cows say! "There goes my mustard, BUSTER!"

TOMORROW, the closest thing to an Old-Fashioned Fourth is the Big Day at the Orinda Park Pool. Members bringing guests are requested to notify the pool for reservations early!

Will the Miramonte Pool get built this year? A little late for summer, but rumor has it that the contract has been let, the pump problem straightened out & at the end of 150 bldg. days Voila, The Pool! In the meantime, it's very Hot & the pool is NOT!

The hills are browner than ever giving California that Camel-hair coat of a look for the summer. How's chow, brown cow? A little on the dry side? Like shredded wheat SANS milk?

Suburbia Today Hilites Boating Throughout Nation

Boating is fast becoming America's number one sport. This month we cast off and tour the country's waterways, dropping anchor here and there at some of our marinas — those dock-side marvels that are virtually suburbs-on-their-own, providing both mooring and servicing facilities for boats and a myriad of other services for the boat owners, including laundry, baby sitters, secretaries and interior decorators.

Our other features this month are notable for their variety both in content and location. There is a story on Cranbrook, the fabulous Suburban Art Center in Bloomfield Hills near Detroit, with its nationally famous schools, church, gardens, art galleries, and science museum that are the pride of the neighboring communities.

From the East Coast comes the hilarious lament of Jerome Weidman, author of such best-sellers as Enemy Camp and What's In It For Me? Weidman is leaving the suburbs, but he stops packing long enough to tell us his reasons for doing so.

From the far West comes a story about a young suburban family that lives high on a mountain ridge only a few minutes from San Francisco and has built a round house made of redwood and glass to take the very best advantage of their fabulous view.

Of course, there are several features that apply to any place and almost to any time. One small piece of sheer, concentrated fun is an outline on how one goes about crashing a party.

We cannot, in all honesty, recommend some of the methods outlined, but we certainly can recommend your reading about them. And cast an eye on "Suburbia—Any Day!" — a group of cartoons highlighting some of the everyday experiences that sooner or later are the lot of most dwellers in the pleasant places.

The food pages offer easy-to-follow, kitchen-tested recipes for "Salads—Special and Satisfying."

Our regular departments, "Books, Movies, & Records" and "Cross-Country Classified" are full of useful vacation helpers that will enhance your home, your library, and your pleasure long after you return—from Vip cartoons and Mitch Miller's Folksongs to a traveling first-aid kit, a coffee travel kit, a feed-bag handbag, and many others.

White Sands Monument Is Unique Playground

Down in the southern part of New Mexico, along the bottom of the Tularosa Valley, is one of our most unusual playgrounds: the White Sands National Monument.

The monument, according to the National Automobile Club, is composed of some 140,000 acres set aside in some 500 square miles of rolling white dunes that nature has been piling up in this area through the long ages.

Headquarters for the monument is located on the north side of U.S. Highway 70, just 15 miles from Alamogordo and 54 miles from Las Cruces.

The park service has built nine miles of road that takes you from the headquarters right into the heart of the dunes. Once you get there you see great rolling dunes, some 30 to 60 feet high, glistening white like pure sugar or salt and stretching out as far as the eye can see.

Driven by the wind, the dunes are moving slowly towards Alamogordo. This, however, worries neither the park service nor the residents of Alamogordo for at the present rate of eight inches per year the dunes should reach that town in about 120,000 years.

The dunes are formed of tiny particles of pure gypsum, the material manufacturers use to make such items as fireproof walls and plaster of Paris.

Nature supplied all this by having her rains and her melting snows carry gypsum down from the surrounding hills and her ground waters carry gypsum up from below the surface of the valley by capillary action.

This process has been going on for countless centuries and is still going on today.

PASSING

If another motoris starts to pass you, National Automobile Club advises you to slow down to make the passing easier and safer.

Sandra Olsen Holds Girls' State Office

Sandra Olsen of Pleasant Hill was elected treasurer of the mythical city of Fremont, county of Bidwell. She is sponsored by Concord Unit Number 171, American Legion Auxiliary.

Officers of 13 mythical California cities and four mythical counties have been elected by the 421 Girls State citizens meeting on the University of California campus at Davis.

Sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, Girls State brings together the outstanding girls in the junior class from high schools throughout the state. In a practical preparation for adult citizenship, Girls State brings together representatives from small and large schools, from the rural areas and the metropolitan areas. In a practical preparation for adult citizenship Girls State citizens draw up platforms for two mythical parties, and campaign to elect officers to city, county and state positions.

The basic unit of organized society is the community or city level and these young people are busy circulating petitions for election to city offices.

Revenue Men Check Claims For 'Tax-Free' Vacations

With the approach of the summer vacation season, Internal Revenue Service warned that "tax paid vacations" are viewed with jaundiced eye.

Federal Revenue Agents have been alert for some time to abuses by a small minority of taxpayers who claim deductions for purported business trips which in fact represent vacations at resort hotels, hunting trips, attendance at sporting events, etc.

Federal tax agents will also closely check amounts claimed for the cost of club dues, entertainment, and company-supported automobiles, yachts, airplanes, hunting lodges and beach cottages to make certain they qualify as bona fide tax deductions.

"There is no desire to tell taxpayers how to spend their money, but in fairness to that vast majority of our citizens who pay every penny of their Federal income tax liability, we do not intend to permit tax abuse by a relatively few who attempt to short change Uncle Sam," officials said.

"Our self-assessment system of taxation is the best yet devised, but it is felt strongly that the surest and quickest way to undermine public confidence in our system would be to fail to see that each and every person pays his fair share under the law."

"The Saint Mary's Alumnus" was cited for third place in columns and editorials.

Official publication of the Saint Mary's College Alumni Association "The Saint Mary's Alumnus" is edited by Walter J. DeFaria, alumni executive director and director of public information at Saint Mary's.

Assistant editor is Mrs. Pat Lawrence, supervisor of the college news bureau.

Driver error caused 85 per cent of the highway accidents in 1958, according to the National Automobile Club.

Justice Wakefield Taylor Succeeds Welfare Leader

Superior Court Justice Wakefield Taylor of Martinez succeeds Mrs. Renee Dana of Lafayette as president of the Community Welfare Council of Central Contra Costa, a United Crusade agency, following elections held at the second annual luncheon meeting today at Concord Inn.

Judge Taylor told the more than 100 guests, "The principal aim of our community welfare council is to insure better social services in an area which is bursting through its social seams with too many juvenile problems, too much deterioration of family life, too many uncared-for children, and a big gap between resources and needs. The gap — because of rising costs and spreading social problems — is ever widening. Through the welfare council's program we hope to readjust some of the resources to better meet our community's needs."

He also emphasized the need of community support and understanding of the council's fivefold program. They are 1) Screen community service agencies to eliminate duplication, waste of funds and manpower; 2) information services to determine needs of residents in health, welfare and youth agencies; 3) establish needed agencies; 4) improve existing services; 5) public information and education.

Main speaker for the luncheon meeting was Miss Mildred Erickson, executive director of the San Mateo Community Welfare Council, a Crusade supported agency, who spoke on "Growing Pains." She discussed the role of welfare councils becoming a representative community planning body for professionals and the public.

Louis A. Ruybalid, executive director of the Central Community Welfare Council presented an outline of proposed plans for the coming year's operations.

Other officers elected to serve with Judge Taylor for the 1959-60 term are, Mrs. Harmon Howard of Walnut Creek, first vice president; Mrs. John Kelly of Walnut Creek, second vice president; Mrs. Tudor Jones of Walnut Creek, secretary; and Joseph Filice of Martinez, treasurer.

Board of directors elected are Mrs. Dana, Mrs. Marguerite Welsh of Danville; Mrs. Beverly Fehliman of Concord; Donald Morrison of Pleasant Hill. Continuing directors are Miss Lillian Wurzel of Walnut Creek; Morgan Greenwood of Concord; and William Maher of Port Chicago.

Section chairman will be Mrs. Lee Kidwell of Walnut Creek, family and child welfare committee; Mrs. John C. Taylor of Pleasant Hill, health section; and Mrs. J. Orr Kyle, group work and recreation.

County to Show Atomic Reactor At State Fair

Construction already is well underway on the dazzling array of county exhibits which will be centers of attraction at the California State Fair and Exposition, from September 2 through 13.

This year, the number of exhibits housed in the spacious counties building at the State Fair will break a 30-year record, for almost all of California's 58 counties will be represented.

BUT MORE than that, the caliber of individual exhibtis will reach new heights of excellence.

The individual exhibits will have a new, and richer look, will be larger and more elaborate. This is true, because this year for the first time, the exhibits will be judged on general appearance and not on the individual quality of the various types of produce they contain.

It will mean, said state fair officials, that quality of the produce must be as good as ever, but it must be more cleverly and eye pleasingly displayed in order for the exhibit to win a prize.

AMONG THE exhibits already in the construction stage are Yolo, Contra Costa, Merced, Fresno, Kern and Sonoma. Many more are in the planning stage and will be started soon.

One of the most startling and unique exhibits in the counties building will be that of Contra Costa, in its story of the harnessing of electrical power.

This exhibit will feature Benjamin Franklin sitting under a tree during a thunderstorm flying his famous kite, and contrasting Ben's crude experiment will be a scale model of an atomic reactor used to produce electricity.

Record Hops Slated for Rheem

Something special on the summer slate are the record hops planned for Friday nights outdoors on the patio at Rheem Shopping Center.

The first dance will be held this Friday night and "pops record" prizes will be awarded for the best in popular dances.

The dances will be held from 7 to 10 p.m., through the courtesy of Patio Music Shop proprietors Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schwedhelm.

The immediate area in front of the record shop will be used for dancing. All young people (and those young in heart who like to dance are invited free of charge.

Governor Signs Six More Waldie, Masterson Laws

Six bills introduced by Contra Costa legislature were recently signed by Governor Edmond G. Brown. They are as follows:

AB 541 (Assemblymen S. C. Masterson (D), El Sobrante, and Jerome R. Waldie (D), Antioch) permits a sanitary district to enter private property for inspection and maintenance of sanitary and waste disposal facilities, and to terminate service in which a violation of rules and regulations of the district is found.

SB 905 (Senators George Miller, Jr. (D), Martinez, and Stanley Arnold (D), Susanville), reaffirms existing law pertaining to assessment and taxation of property and how it is to be assessed.

AB 1138 (Assemblymen William Biddick Jr. (D), Stockton, Masterson and Waldie), permits court clerks to make public the facts of filing of a complaint, or attachment except where the plaintiff requests in writing at the time of filing. Also provides that the entire file shall be made available to the party to the action or his attorney at any time.

AB 557 (Masterson and Waldie), provides that when owners of more than 50 per cent of the front footage of any block file a petition with the City Clerk requesting sidewalks, gutters, pavements or curbs, the owners of all property in the block fronting the street shall have the duty of constructing these improvements.

SB 675 (Senators Paul L. Byrne (R), Chico, and Miller, had the support of all of the California insurance companies and the Board of Fire Underwriters. It announced today he has signed eight more bills, including one excluded from standard insurance policies loss or damage caused by nuclear reaction, radiation or radioactive contamination, unless specifically covered by endorsement to the policy.

Reserve Officer Group Starts Member Drive

A membership drive in what has been called "the only completely unified association, not only in the officer corps but in the entire military establishment" is now under way with the start of Operation Join-Up, a special project-title given the Reserve Officers Association membership campaign.

Open to all officers and warrant officers, regular or reserve, in all branches of the military establishment, the ROA has much to offer.

ROA has pursued objectives and principles vital to national security as well as those of personal importance to members of the military.

Old Fashioned July Fourth Set at Orinda Park Pool

Four dances and a Talent Night are among the summer activities planned for the young members of the Orinda Park Pool.

According to publicity chairman Charlie Ward, the first dance will be part of the old-fashioned Fourth family celebration slated for the pool members all day tomorrow. There will be dancing to stereophonic records from 7:30 to 11:30 p. m.

Under the adult leadership of Mrs. Harold Sage and Howard Kistner, a Teen-Age club has been organized as well as a group for seventh and eighth graders.

For the teen group, dances are tentatively scheduled for Friday. July 10, Saturday July 25 and on Saturday August 22 when the young people will invite guests for the first Cotton Cotillion, a dress-up dance which it is hoped, will become a tradition on the summer calendar.

Successful in past years is the Talent Night, one of which is planned for Friday, August 14.

Those interested in helping with the entertainment should contact Mrs. Sage, Kistner or watch for sign-ups on the pool bulletin board.

Members should phone in guests' names as soon as possible.

But the Big Event right now is the closest thing to an Old-Fashioned Fourth.

Liquor Dealers Ignoring Change In Revenue Law

Liquor dealers apparently are disregarding the notice that was sent with Form 11, Special Tax Renewal, explaining the changes in the law, according to Joseph M. Cullen, district director at San Francisco.

Payments at the old rate, Cullen said, have been enclosed with the majority of the applications that have been received; therefore, it is necessary to contact the dealer for the additional amount due, which delays the issuance of a stamp

Sales of Muir Book To Aid Restoration

Mrs. Fern Davis, a Lafayette resident and director of libraries for Pittsburg Unified School District, has been selected to serve on a county public relations committee by Contra Costa County Historical Society and John Muir Memorial Association to publicize sale of "John Muir-Naturalist" by the Rev. John Winkley of Walnut Creek.

PROCEEDS of the book will be donated by the author to the two organizations for restoration of the John Muir home and the Martinez adobe as a museum and historical park.

The appointment was made at a recent meeting of the two sponsoring groups at the Muir home in Martinez with Rev. Winkley officiating at a meeting representing educators and civic leaders.

One thousand copies of the Muir biography have already been published and 2000 are due for printing this summer.

Contra Costa County educators are backing efforts of the two groups to preserve the Muir home as a memorial and historical monument linking it with study of conservation for which the naturalist was famous. Many schools and public buildings throughout the nation have been named for Muir and local educators feel that his home here should be preserved.

Dr. Floyd Marchus, county superintendent of schools, also attended the session at which promotion of the book sale as a means of financing the project was discussed.

Committees will resume activities in August but planning for the project will continue through the summer.

Electrical Power Will Be Theme For Our Exhibit

The story of the harnessing of electrical power, from the time of Benjamin Franklin to today's atomic powered steam plants for geenration of electricity, will be the feature of Contra Costa County's exhibit at the California State Fair, September 2 through 13.

LOCATED in the big, elaborately decorated Counties Building, the Contra Costa exhibit will feature an animated Ben Franklin sitting under a tree during a thunderstorm, flying a kite like Amos, the mouse.

And contrasting with Ben's primitive efforts to learn something more of electrical power, will be a working, scale model of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company's latest atomic steam reactor.

Added to these scenes will be three dimensional models of industry, schools, and home development made possible by the development of electrical power.

AND WITH these examples of industry and modern technological advances will be exhibits of Contra Costa's diversified agricultural yield.

Fruits, vegetables, grains, and the products of its vineyards will be blended into one, huge colorful exhibit, which not only will be tertaining but educational.

The general theme of the exhibit will be the wealth of Contra Costa County, and how its wealth has been derived from electricity and its use.

Opera Auditions Finals Set for Friday, July 10

The climax of the Sixth Annual San Francisco Opera Debut Auditions will occur at 8:30 Friday, July 10, on the stage of the Veterans' Auditorium when 10 young singers from the western United States and Canada take part in the grand finals.

Kurt Herbert Adler, general director of the San Francisco Opera, baritone Robert Weede, and conductor Arthur Fiedler will serve as judges.

James Schwabacher, of the Merola Memorial Fund, is to be the master of ceremonies.

Maestro Wolfgang Martin will conduct members of the San Francisco Opera Orchestra.

The musicians have been provided through the cooperation of Local No. 6 of the American Federation of Musicians through a grant from the recording industries trust funds.

Flower Show Silver Cups Are Awarded

Officials of the California Spring Garden & Home Show met recently at lunch at the Claremont Country Club to award special cups to exhibitors, featuring outstanding designs.

A. H. Moffitt, Jr., of Alameda, president of the First District Agricultural association, presided, with Harold Crew of San Leandro serving as chairman of the award ceremonies.

The Henry J .Kaiser cup for structural emphasis was earned by Jack McDonnell of McDonnell Nursery, Oakland.

The Bestor Robinson trophy for highest horticultural merit was presented to Gomes and Son's rhododendron nursery of Oakland.

The highest amateur horticultural award went to Ralph Hillary, show exhibit chairman of the Cactus and Succulent Society.

The highest professional design award was earned by Herman Sandkuhle of Sunset Nursery, a charter exhibitor with a record of participation in every one of the 27 shows.

The Bechtel cup was awarded to the University of California Landscape Design Club for clever use of steel in garden structures.

The Hillside Gardeners of Montclair earned a cup for the second year in succession for best design.
